Imperial-Weyburn Bank Merger Approved Shareholders Vote Union of Imperial And Prairie Banks

Purchase of Weyburn Institution, Approved by Owners of Imperial at Toronto To-day, Establishes Financial Concern With Assets of $133,708,000.

Canadian Press
Toronto, March 17.—Following a special meeting of shareholders of the Imperial Bank of Canada here to-day, it was announced the purchase of the Weyburn Security Bank had been approved.

According to the terms, Weyburn Security Bank will retain assets valued at approximately $500,000 and in addition will receive about $160,000 in cash from the Imperial Bank. The combined total assets of the two companies will amount to $1,337,080,000.

The Weyburn Security Bank was first organized in 1902.

The merger plan was announced in January last.

NEW PLAN TO CUT OUTLAYS IN BRITAIN

London, March 17.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald announced to-day in the House of Commons plans for the formation of an all-party committee to make recommendations to the Chancellor of the Exchequer for ways of effecting possible economies in the national expenditures, each of the three parties to nominate two members to the committee.

HOULDSWORTH CONVICTED OF HOTEL FRAUDS

Man Claiming to Be From B.C. Sentenced to One Year in London

Seventy-four-year-old Man and His Wife Got Money From Hotels

Canadian Press
London, March 17.—John William Houldsworth, seventy-four, described by his counsel as a resident of Vancouver, B.C., and as having large financial interests in Canada, and his twenty-eight-year-old wife, pleaded guilty in the Marlborough Street Police Court here to-day, to obtaining sums amounting to $190 by fraud from two London hotels. They were sentenced to serve one year in prison.

The police stated the accused had defrauded hotels at Eastbourne, Windsor, Harrogate, Leicester and Southampton.

There was a previous conviction against Houldsworth many years ago, apart from which nothing was known against him. The woman, however, had been involved with the police on several occasions.

The defence stated that Houldsworth, with large financial interests in Canada, had been receiving several thousands of pounds sterling yearly remuneration as a company director, but that he had lost about $150,000 in cash in the crash of the notorious Hatry companies a year or more ago.

Houldsworth is not listed in the current issue of The Financial Post, Toronto, directory of Canadian directors.

ASKS BENNETT CABINET TO GIVE INFORMATION

HON. P. J. VENIOT

Ottawa, March 17.—Of thirty questions which appeared on to-day's order paper of the Commons Hon. P. J. Veniot, who was Postmaster-General in the King Cabinet, is asking the government for answers to twenty-one. From tenders for construction of breakwaters, tenders for air mail services, expenditures on unemployment relief and immigration, the subjects of queries by Mr. Veniot vary all along the line to dismissals of certain postmasters.

LISTER TAKES EXCEPTION TO JONES ECONOMY

Present Good Time For Public Works Expenditure, Says Creston Member

Member For Kamloops In Appreciative Mood During Budget Debate

Hon. J. W. Jones's announced policy of economy was criticized from the Conservative side of the Legislature yesterday, when Col. Fred Lister, Conservative, Creston, complained of road work stopping along Kootenay Lake after twenty-nine miles of highway had been completed and an expenditure of another $350,000 was needed.

Colonel Lister took exception to criticism from the opposition that extravagant road building had been carried out. Pointing to the tourist business as a great asset, he said the criticism was uncalled for and shortsighted. To get tourist business the province must have good roads.

"I think the new Minister of Finance may be inclined to too much economy, particularly at this time," the colonel remarked. "These are abnormal times and there is no indication that we shall soon turn the corner. Employment has to be found for many men. I think this would have been a good year to carry on public works quite extensively."

Canadian Press
Buenos Aires, March 17.—The government of Argentina to-day accepted Canada's invitation to attend the forthcoming World Grain Exhibition at Regina, Sask. The government appointed a commission to deal with subjects which will be presented at the conference, to be held in 1932.

AIRSHIP RECORD

Tokio, March 17.—A Japanese semi-rigid dirigible to-day set what was claimed to be a world endurance record for this type of craft when it completed a stretch of sixty hours aloft without refuelling. It descended at 11:30 a.m. to-day.

Drastic action was taken by the City Council yesterday evening to prevent interruption of business by applause from the public. Before the Council had reached the serious business of the evening it adjourned, leaving the chamber to Joe North who made a speech against circuses.

It is the first time in the history of civic officials that such action has been taken by the council. It was done as a direct result of applause which greeted remarks of Alderman R. T. Williams on the question of allowing the Conklin and Garrett sideshows to come to the city.

Mayor Ansonb gave the gallery full warning that such a step would follow too much demonstration. Last week the mayor made a definite announcement that the council, connected under parliamentary rules, would not stand for frequent interruptions of this nature and repeated the statement when applause started at the beginning of the meeting yesterday evening.

DISPUTES LEGAL OPINION

It was apparent from the start the council members were in no mood to tolerate the outbursts of cheering and handclapping. An acrimonious debate on the circus question had about reached its peak when Alderman Williams disputed the opinion of City Solicitor Fringie, who said the council had no power to refuse a license to the circus provided it complied with all rules and regulations. Cheers drowned out Alderman Williams and people shouted from all sides of the chamber.

"Move we adjourn," said Alderman J. L. Mara, through the shouts.

"Second the motion," said Alderman Robert Smith, who could hardly be heard.

Mayor Ansonb put the motion, it carried and the council left the chamber in a body.

Mr. North rushed into the centre of the enclosure waving his arms frantically.

WRINCH OFFERS OTHER WAYS OF RAISING TAXES

Skeena Member Points to Many Objections on Proposed Income Levy

Other suggestions for raising revenue instead of taking the bread and butter of the poor and taking street-car money away from the shogglie were advanced in the Legislature yesterday by Dr. H. C. Wrinch, Liberal, Skeena, in a criticism of the proposed one per cent levy on incomes over $12 per week.

Dr. Wrinch suggested that the Minister of Finance note what was being done elsewhere. Ontario, for instance, he said, had decided to meet its deficit by increasing the price of liquor and by taxing wealthy corporations, such as banks, finance houses, trust companies, railways, gas and electric companies, race-track owners and liquor exporters.

None of these taxes, he stated, would take food from the table of humble working people.

Dr. Wrinch said the Jones income tax ignored the vital principle of other income taxes in that it was not graduated according to ability to pay and did not grant exemptions, either for small earnings or age.

QUOTES PROTESTS

He quoted the protests of business men, labor, the women, and finally, according to the government press, the Conservative caucus. Apparently this last protest had registered and there were to be exemptions, he commented, because the caucus had notified the minister to that effect. He hoped the caucus would take note of the other principles of taxation he had mentioned and that when the minister finally reported the decision of the caucus to the House there would be a fairer basis for the new tax.

COUNCIL WILL MEET AGAIN

Gathering Slated For Tomorrow Morning; Comment on Board's Action

With about half of its agenda to complete, the City Council, interrupted yesterday evening, will resume deliberations to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock in the council chamber, according to a notice posted at the City Hall this morning.

It is not expected any steps will be taken to set the tax rate, but the routine business left undone yesterday evening will be handled. This does include, however, two reports of the committee of the whole in regard to the tax situation, but little discussion on this point is anticipated.

The council's action in suspending business yesterday evening had general approval in City Hall circles this morning. It was pointed out the public had been given sufficient warning on the matter and the policy pursued was necessary.

Mayor Ansonb had little comment to make. When it was suggested the noise makers might have been put out of the meeting, he pointed out this probably would have led to a general election order. He supported the council's action.

The City Council, as far as procedure is concerned, works under similar rules to those of legislative chambers, where no applause is tolerated. While in the past it has been customary to pass over mild interruptions of this nature, the frequent demonstrations at recent meetings of the civic body culminated in the drastic move yesterday evening, it was stated.

BEATTY TELLS HOW REVIVAL CAME TO CANADA FROM THE DARKER DAYS OF YEARS 1893-96

Politics, Not Economics, Responsible for Much of the Improvident Spending in This Country and Mistakes During Years of Prosperity, President of C.P.R. Declares in Address at Toronto.

Toronto, March 17.—E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, speaking before the combined Boards of Trade and Empire Clubs of this city, drew a parallel between present conditions and those of a far more serious nature which this country had suffered in former periods of depression. He blamed politics far more than the improvident government spending in Canada, which, he declared, was not made on the basis of economics.

Mr. Beatty stated that there was a natural apprehension abroad regarding future business conditions.

"We are prone to think," he said, "that because we are individually a little worse off, that the whole country is as badly off as we are, and we look at Canada through spectacles temporarily clouded by the fog of a local condition or a condition which affects most acutely some particular business. No one can quarrel with such a legitimate reaction to a personal situation as that, but still we would be very unwise were we to assume that the worst and most abnormal of our situations represents the normal of our situations."

MILK MEASURE REPEAL SOUGHT

First of the various agricultural market bills to reach the floor of the Legislature is the proposal to repeal the Dairy Products' Sales Adjustment Act.

J. A. Loutet, member for North Vancouver, has filed notice of intent to introduce a bill to repeal the act in toto.

This means that the amendments asked by the committee of adjustment must be moved as amendments to Mr. Loutet's bill, as there can not be two amending bills to the same act before the House in the one session.

Mr. Loutet's objection to the act is in behalf of the small dairymen on the North Shore, who object to being lumped with the Fraser Valley farmers. The North Shore men sell fluid milk in their own immediate neighborhood and have no surplus problem of their own. They object, says Mr. Loutet, to being levied upon to take care of the Fraser Valley surplus.

BENNETT IS TO BE FINANCE HEAD TILL FALL

Ottawa, March 17.—Premier R. B. Bennett intimated in the House of Commons this afternoon that he would retain the portfolio of Finance until the close of the Imperial Economic Conference to be held in Ottawa this summer. At the present time he is President of the Privy Council and Secretary of State for External Affairs as well as Finance Minister.

GUARDS AND CROWD HAVE GUN BATTLE

400 Shots Exchanged in Missouri Near Where Oil Pipeline Being Constructed

Associated Press
St. Louis, Mo., March 17.—About 100 men, armed with shotguns and revolvers, ambushed six guards of the Phillips Pipeline Company to-day as they drove along a Hog Haven road to escort laborers to the tanks of the company, and wounded four of the guards in a gun battle.

The attack was attributed to labor troubles, as the tanks of the pipe line company are being erected by the Chicago Bridge and Iron Company under an "open shop" policy.

As the guards, all special duty sheriffs, traveling in three automobiles about 100 yards apart, entered a ravine between two railroad embankments, (Concluded on Page 2)

JOSEPHINE K. PROTEST FROM CANADA TO U.S.

Canadian Press
Washington, March 17.—The Canadian Government, through its legation here, formally protested to-day to the State Department against the recent incident in which the Canadian runner Josephine K. was fired on off New York by a coastguard cutter.

The captain of the Josephine K., William Chett, was killed. State Department officials declined to comment on the contents of the note, but said it had been formally acknowledged.

39 MISSING

St. John's, Nfld., March 17.—An official check-up of survivors at Horse Island show thirty-nine of the Viking's company are missing, including the three United States movie men and one stowaway from St. John's.

Canadian Press
St. John's, Nfld., March 17.—Success raced through ice-choked White Bay, on the northern coast of Newfoundland, to-day for the 118 known survivors of the sealer Viking, which exploded at sea.

The number of reported deaths stood at between twenty and twenty-five, DORY SIGHTED

A report from the wireless station at Horse Island said a dory had been seen about four or five miles off shore at daylight, making very slow progress through the ice pack. Seven men were in the dory, five apparently seriously hurt.

Miss O. Bartlett, the eighteen-year-old wireless operator on the island, reported it as doubtful the dory would be able to make shore.

SURVIVORS SUFFER

The weather was not particularly severe, being "moderately cold," according to the weather office, but it was sufficiently sharp to tend to the hardships of the survivors of the disaster.

The known missing were eight, including Varick Frissell of New York, who was aboard the ship "Shels" for a movie of the sealing industry; A. E. Penrod, of Waterbury, Conn., cameraman, and Harry Cargent, explorer, who was on the film "Villain" in the Frissell picture. Others missing were the wireless operator, the navigator, cook, steward and the boatswain.

MATE INJURED

The mate of the Viking was on the ice with a broken leg.

The 118 known survivors, including Capt. Abram Kean Jr., reached Horse Island yesterday evening, having walked ashore across the ice. The condition of the captain, who was blown from the bridge of the Viking to the ice when the ship exploded, was believed serious. Injuries among the others were not believed great although all were in need of the food and warmth to be provided with the arrival about 1 p.m. to-day of the rescue ship carrying physicians and nurses. The first ship to reach the scene was the sealing steamer Ungava.

King States Canada's Prestige Lower Under Bennett's Guidance

Liberal Leader Tells Commons Ministry's Attitude Threatens to Make Empire Economic Conference in Ottawa a Failure; Moves Amendment to Address

Ottawa, March 17.—The House of Commons this afternoon resumed its debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne with a Liberal amendment before it and fresh in its memory Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King's declaration that as a result of the Bennett Government's course, "the prestige of Canada to-day is lower in Britain than it has been at any time."

The members assembled this afternoon with ample proof that the opposition means to subject every proposal of the Bennett government affecting the economic life of Canada to the closest analysis. The belief of the Liberals, as expressed in the amendment moved by Mr. King, is that if Mr. Bennett and his colleagues persist in their policies, as disclosed up to now, "the very serious conditions which exist at the present time will be intensified, rather than relieved."

In the field of empire trade and other affairs, Mr. King clearly and with emphasis stated his views in a speech yesterday evening, which is expected to rank with his greatest efforts at this session of Parliament. He said to the Commons:

"The (Imperial Economic) Conference is to meet here again in the fall, but unless my right honorable friend (Premier Bennett) changes his mind, the conference will be a failure."

BENNETT IN HOUSE DEBATE

Galleries of Commons Filled When Premier Speaks; Diplomats Attend

Ottawa, March 17.—At 3:15 this afternoon Premier R. B. Bennett rose in the House of Commons to reply to Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, in the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

The galleries of the House were crowded to overflowing when the Prime Minister began speaking. Most of the foreign ministers were in the distinguished visitors' gallery. Sir William Clark, British High Commissioner in Canada, was an interested listener.

MANUSCRIPT INCIDENTS

Premier Bennett intimated he did not propose to speak at length. To the move of the address, Maximilian Cormier, Conservative, Restigouche-Madawaska, N.B., coming from the province of his birth, and to Victor Porteous, Conservative, North Grey, Ontario, second order of the address, the Prime Minister paid tributes.

Mr. Bennett said he was somewhat surprised at the remark yesterday of the leader of the opposition—surprised that Mr. King should suggest one of the members speaking yesterday had read from a manuscript, for, said Mr. Bennett, the leader of the opposition himself had proceeded to read "the major portion of his address."

OTHER SPEAKERS

It was arranged that Mr. Bennett's speech would be followed by addresses by J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Centre, Robert Gardiner, Acadia, U.F.A. leader, had been scheduled to speak after the Prime Minister, but was suffering to-day with a sore throat.

Hon. Charles Stewart, former Liberal Minister of Interior, was scheduled to enter the debate later in the day.

BOMBERS BUSY IN BELGRADE

Army Officer Killed; Twenty Persons Are Arrested By Police

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, March 17.—Four bombs exploded to-day in front of public buildings in Belgrade. One tore a hole in the facade of the War Office, another fatally injured an army officer who picked it up in front of the officers' quarters and attempted to quench it. A third damaged the Finance Ministry and a fourth detonated in front of the Military Academy without doing serious harm.

Authorities threw cordons of troops and police around the four buildings, enforced a telephone and telegraph censorship and arrested twenty persons. A commission which investigated the explosions concluded the bombs had been laid by persons who had arrived and departed secretly by train.

Authorities were disposed to believe the outrages had been committed either by Albanian or Bulgarian comitadjis, irregular bands working against the government.

The officer killed was Major Rekalovitz. The bomb placed in front of the officers' quarters exploded as he picked it up and he died of wounds within a few minutes.

CANADIAN AVIATION APPEAL IS TO BE HEARD IN LONDON

Canadian Press
London, March 17.—The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council here to-day granted leave to appeal in two matters of considerable importance to Canada.

The first case is the dispute between the Dominion and provincial governments as to jurisdiction over aviation. The appeal arises from an opinion of the Supreme Court of Canada to the effect that the Dominion may control such aviation matters as are involved in international affairs and such aerial activities as the Dominion itself engages in, but that the provinces have definite jurisdiction to control and legislate on aviation within their own territories. The Dominion is taking the case to the Privy Council, for the effect of the Supreme Court's decision is to declare invalid federal legislation affecting aerial activities in Canada, in so far as this tends to lay down regulations applicable to the provinces.

The other case is the claim by the governments of Saskatchewan and Alberta that the proceeds of lands and other natural resources, disposed of between 1870 and 1905 and recently handed back to the provinces, should be accounted for by the Dominion Government to those provinces.

To Survey Varsity To Set Attendance Limit For Students

Vancouver, March 17.—The government, having announced as part of its university policy, that it is impossible to provide funds to extend existing accommodation at Point Grey, the Board of Governors, at its meeting yesterday evening, appointed a committee to survey the present buildings, and to report to the number of students who, with safety, can attend classes there with a view to limiting attendance to such a number.

GASOLINE CHEAP NOW IN SEATTLE

Seattle, March 17.—Gasoline prices ranged from 10 to 13 cents a gallon in Seattle to-day, with the majority of downtown stations selling at 13 cents. The lower prices were seen in the outlying districts.

MILK INQUIRY PLAN APPROVED BY ALDERMEN

Vancouver City Council Backs Mayor Taylor's Request to Ottawa

Canadian Press

Vancouver, March 17.—Approval of the action of Mayor Louis D. Taylor in asking for a federal investigation of the milk situation in Vancouver under the terms of the Combines Investigation Act, was given by the city council yesterday afternoon. The Mayor was urged to press strongly for the investigation.

A charge that an attempt had been made to "double-cross" the city in connection with an amendment being sought by the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association was made by Alderman George Miller.

"I am amazed that any organization should attempt to 'double-cross' the city like this," he declared. "This organization gave the city council one list of amendments which it was seeking and the agricultural committee of the Legislature another."

"It is the most damnable thing I have ever seen," he continued. "They are trying to hog the milk dealer selling in Vancouver. Last year they let a few slide under the act, but in the meantime some of the smaller independent brought themselves up to the preferred milk standard, and now they more are selling that type of milk."

PURCHASE OF DAIRIES

He charged that because of the Milk Act another corporation had been formed with the friendly co-operation of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association. He declared the corporation had a throttle hold and controlled production and sales.

In purchasing the dairies making up the combine, Alderman Miller charged that three to four times the appraised value was paid on which the people of Vancouver would have to pay dividends.

City Solicitor J. B. Williams said the city had been shown only one amendment to the act while eight amendments, covering many pages, had been submitted to the committee of the Legislature at Victoria. He had had no difficulty in getting a copy at Victoria, he stated, and the amendments affected certain principles in the original act and went much farther.

Speed, ninety gross, sixteen handicap and seventy-three net. The ladies' medal was won by Miss D. Crofton, second Mrs. W. M. Mout.

SHEDS AND FREIGHT CARS ARE BURNED

Quebec, March 17.—A spectacular fire completely destroyed the Canadian Railway sheds and eighteen freight cars in the yards at Limouliou, Quebec suburb, yesterday evening. Three resounding explosions marked the progress of the blaze as tanks containing welding gas were shattered.

With brief reference to the more outstanding points in the history of the railway construction, Mr. Beatty passed on to the period between 1893-96, one of the most trying periods in the economic history of Canada.

The McKinley tariff had dislocated the whole trade of Canada with the United States. In 1893 Austria had experienced a terrible banking crash followed by a severe stringency in the London money market. Many American railroads passed into the hands of receivers.

Large corporations closed their doors; banks were failing daily; currency went to a premium and could hardly be obtained at all.

"By 1894 business was paralyzed over entire western half of the continent," he continued. "Who felt in an abnormally low price and a winter of unusual severity tremendously multiplied the difficulties of the Canadian Pacific."

In the spring of 1893, its dividend was reduced to one cent per cent, and the price of a $100 share fell to $35.

HOW REVIVAL CAME

"Then came the opening of new mines in British Columbia and the Lake Superior district making up somewhat for diminished traffic in wheat and business gradually came back to culminate in a tide of prosperity in 1897."

"During all this period the people of

BEATTY TELLS HOW REVIVAL CAME TO CANADA FROM THE DARKER DAYS OF 1893-96

average just as in 1928 we were inclined to think that the best and most abundant was real and permanent.

FAST MISTAKES STICK OUT

"We have learned a good deal in the last year and a half, and, of course, as always has been the case under abnormal conditions, mistakes of previous years, or rather the results of them, have become more conspicuous in prosperous times mistakes are made which do not become unduly prominent, but in times of depression many of them stick out like sore fingers, and if we are wise, we review the situation in the light of the story they tell."

FACTORS IN DEPRESSION

"Economists tell us that the trend of the world's trade has changed and that national consciousness and pride has led many nations to set up tariff walls in the interest of their own people and that this has interrupted the free flow of commodities throughout the world. They will tell you, too, that the huge stock market losses of 1929 and 1930 have affected the fortunes and the buying power of many thousands of people. They will also say that at a time when agriculture and other basic products are very low priced, many of the world's people are suffering. That the anomaly of over-production has taken place when people are actually in need, but cannot buy the commodities they require, and they tell you that this is due to maldistribution of goods, to an extent, to the low price of silver, and therefore, its ineffectiveness as a medium of purchasing."

WAR DEBTS MOST BLAME

"In factors mentioned are undoubtedly important, but I believe that one of the most deterring influences to the resumption of normal trade is the presence of huge war obligations, holders and because of the absolute necessity of preserving our own integrity, our money should be spent in ways which would at least give good grounds for confidence of a return. We must, of course, under present conditions exercise reasonable economy, not the slashing economy of panic, but the reason, of course, is that the world is not a carefully-considered economy of wisdom."

C.P.R. EXPENDITURE

The Canadian Pacific has spent a great deal of money, not always with a commercial reason behind it, we know that in justice to our shareholders and because of the absolute necessity of preserving our own integrity, our money should be spent in ways which would at least give good grounds for confidence of a return. We must, of course, under present conditions exercise reasonable economy, not the slashing economy of panic, but the reason, of course, is that the world is not a carefully-considered economy of wisdom."

CANADIANS IMPROVIDENT

"Canadians have in some respects been a rather improvident people in the matter of public expenditures; the result is that the guiding principle of such expenditure is not and cannot be in all cases based upon the measure of return. Also, politics and not economics are very often the guiding influence, and with these uncommercial elements in public expenditures we look for waste and extravagance. We have been disappointed, I doubt if any of us, even those who consider themselves reasonably well informed, can have any accurate appreciation of the millions of money that have been unnecessarily spent because the existing prosperous conditions in the country seemed to justify what, in any circumstances, would be extravagant."

BIG NATIONAL REFUNDING

"Between now and 1934 this dominion must refund bonds to the amount of a billion dollars, the money for which was secured in a period of patriotic fervor, where investment for public purposes was properly considered the duty of every man and woman who had anything to invest. Refunding operations will not take place until the country is in a position to absorb them. I am satisfied that the substantial though the operation is, has been successfully completed, but the magnitude of it is colossal. To realize the care we should exert in public expenditures."

VOLUME OF PRODUCTION HIGHER

"When we become slightly discouraged and perhaps somewhat apprehensive, we forget that we have tangible evidence of a return to prosperity, we can take some comfort in the fact that, save as to wheat, our production of basic commodities has been greater in 1930 than in 1925; that our country is just as strong and our people stronger, more resourceful and business generally Canada has the recent and commercially more active years."

SLAMMED BY LONDON JOURNAL

Turning to the West, Mr. Beatty said that in 1881, when the C.P.R. was incorporated, there were no post offices between Manitoba's western border and the Rocky Mountains.

"At about the same time," said Mr. Beatty, "London Truth was publishing an opinion that Western Canada was as forbidding as any on earth, that 'British Columbia was a cold, barren, mountain country not worth keeping and that the Canadian Pacific was never likely to pay a single red cent of interest on the money to be sunk in it.'"

RECALLS DARK NINETIES

With brief reference to the more outstanding points in the history of the railway construction, Mr. Beatty passed on to the period between 1893-96, one of the most trying periods in the economic history of Canada. The McKinley tariff had dislocated the whole trade of Canada with the United States. In 1893 Austria had experienced a terrible banking crash followed by a severe stringency in the London money market. Many American railroads passed into the hands of receivers. Large corporations closed their doors; banks were failing daily; currency went to a premium and could hardly be obtained at all.

"By 1894 business was paralyzed over entire western half of the continent," he continued. "Who felt in an abnormally low price and a winter of unusual severity tremendously multiplied the difficulties of the Canadian Pacific."

HOW REVIVAL CAME

"Then came the opening of new mines in British Columbia and the Lake Superior district making up somewhat for diminished traffic in wheat and business gradually came back to culminate in a tide of prosperity in 1897."

"During all this period the people of

ULSTER PREMIER SAYS IRELAND STEADILY GAINS

Viscount Craigavon Issues Message on St. Patrick's Day

Canadian Press

Belfast, Northern Ireland, March 17.—Viscount Craigavon, Premier of Ulster, to-day issued a message to Irishmen all over the world on the occasion of St. Patrick's Day. He said:

"I am glad to send a message from Ulster to our countrymen scattered over the wide world. They will rejoice to know peace prevails in Ireland. The industrial depression still exists to a considerable degree, but prospects of trade revival are hopeful and even encouraging."

"The spirit which helped us through many difficult times is still as potent as ever. When the clouds hanging over our industries are dispersed, when the click of the looms is universally heard in our factories and mills and when our anvils once more resound to the hammer, Ulster, with the rest of Ireland, will continue with courageous steps along the road of social advancement to the accompaniment of prosperity and happiness."

RAILWAYS DIVERSIFICATION

"Van Horne's favorite maxim was that a railway must keep on growing, otherwise it dies or is eaten up by what is growing. As a result of this policy, the Canadian Pacific Railway diversified its activities so as to secure traffic and income from many enterprises which might not be considered strictly railway enterprises. On this account, it established a commercial telegraph system, developed mines, became interested in smelters, erected and operated an extensive chain of hotels, spent over $17,000,000 on an irrigation system in Alberta, constructed much of its equipment in its own shops, and launched a steamship enterprise which has become one of the largest in the world. This diversity of interests has contributed in no small degree to the growth of the country's trade and progress, creating business for the Canadian people as well as traffic for itself. It has also proved a source of stability, eliminating the hazards attendant on any concern which depends on only one source of revenue."

"The statement which I have already quoted to the effect that the development of new mines in British Columbia and north of Lake Superior contributed to the recovery from the depression of the period of 1893-96, makes all the more significant the recent development of mining interests in northern Canada. This development has been greatly accelerated by the use of airplane service, and was opened up prospects for the future which are still beyond calculation. As a result, new branch lines are being pushed north, and the Canadian Pacific is revealed on the map as being no longer a railway paralleling the international boundary."

DIVERSIFIED FARMING URGED

"The agricultural credit plan recently suggested by myself and supported by the government is not a panacea that dropped out of the blue sky, but is in line with the long established policy and belief of the company, namely, that diversified farming should be practiced in the west where possible. Wheat was the magnet which drew the majority of settlers to the west, and for forty years much of our prairie land was sold on the west. There are large areas which lack sufficient water to be suitable for raising stock. The soil is peculiarly adapted for milling wheat, and so long as the human race inclines to the wheaten loaf, so long can Canadian wheat command a world market."

"The agricultural credit plan is not intended to transform the west into one vast stock farm—it is merely a method of providing capital on easy terms, to enable approved settlers who have suitable land to feed their less marketable grain to stock and to depend more on their own farms for produce on which they themselves and the people of Canada depend for necessary food."

SHOULD PRESS FOR MORE

ONE OF THE PHENOMENA OF our time is the meekness with which the municipalities of the province received the announcement of the Minister of Finance that out of the proceeds of the proposed new one per cent tax $500,000 will be apportioned to them and the various school districts for purposes of school finance. Officially the government expects the tax to yield $2,500,000 a year. Unofficially it expects the yield to be much larger, some estimates running as high as $5,000,000.

Most of the revenue the government will gain from the new tax will flow to the provincial treasury from Vancouver and Victoria. Vancouver will contribute at least sixty per cent of the total, and if that total is $2,500,000, Vancouver's portion will be at least $1,500,000. Vancouver's share of the $500,000 the government offers to divide among the municipalities and school districts is estimated to be $140,000, less than one-tenth of the revenue the new tax will draw from that community.

Victoria will contribute at least one-fifth of the revenue the new tax is expected officially to yield to the provincial treasury. If the total yield is $2,500,000, Victoria's contribution will be at least $500,000. But, according to the latest estimate, Victoria will receive in return only $17,000 of the grant of $500,000 the government offers to the municipalities. Incidentally, there is more than three million dollars of provincial government property in Victoria which contributes nothing in taxes to the city.

All of our municipalities have financial problems of varying degrees of acuteness, some of them being even more perplexing than those of the provincial government. It is somewhat difficult to understand, therefore, why they are not demanding a larger proportion of the amount they are going to turn into the provincial treasury under the new one per cent. tax.

AN OBLIGATION INVOLVED

CRITICS OF THIS COUNTRY'S EM-bargo on Russian imports, particularly those who view the matter purely from the standpoint of dollars and cents, seem to forget that Canada, as a member of the League of Nations, has certain responsibilities to discharge, apart from all other considerations, and irrespective of whether other member states observe them or not.

Under Article 23 (a) of the Covenant of the League, Canada, like other members, has undertaken to endeavor to secure and maintain fair and humane conditions of labor for men, women and children, both in their own countries and in all countries to which their commercial and industrial relations extend. The course the British government has taken in this matter naturally is its own business. It apparently does not seem disposed to act under the Article to which we have referred. Instead, it has suggested to the authorities at Moscow that, in view of the many statements made, affidavits sworn to, and of the doubt as to the exact degree of truth or falsity that may attach to them, an impartial inquiry would be very desirable. The Soviet government, however, does not agree with this view and the British government has announced that it is "unlikely that any inquiry conducted without their (the Soviet authorities') assistance would bring about a satisfactory result."

Apart from the existence, or otherwise, of conditions of slavery in Russia's lumber camps and coal mines, the action which Canada has taken in placing an embargo on Russian imports is actuated also by a desire to prove to the Soviet authorities that this country, at least, does not propose to be dictated to economically by them or anybody else. The sooner other countries take a similar course, the sooner will Russia be made to recognize that it will pay her only if she plays fair in her business dealings with the rest of the world, if she abolishes production methods which belong to the dark ages.

MILK

APPARENTLY THERE IS NOTHING exclusive about British Columbia's discussion of the subject of milk at this time. The House of Lords in London recently staged a full dress debate on the same topic. Our Legislature, however, is concerned with the manner in which milk is purveyed; the upper chamber at Westminster confined itself to the nutrient of milk, the advantages of boiling and pasteurizing, and what doctors say and do not say.

Earl de la Warr took a shot at the subject from the statistical standpoint and told the House that if the people of Great Britain consumed as much milk per capita as the people of the United States, it would be necessary for the dairymen of the Old Country to produce 1,800,000,000 gallons annually, or 700,000,000 gallons more than their present production. And if Switzerland be taken for comparative purposes, Britain, to keep pace with the Alpine republic, would have to consume 3,600,000,000 gallons a year instead of the 1,100,000,000 gallons her people consume now.

Viscount Astor took another line—milk as a food. He told their lordships that one quart of milk is equivalent in food value to one pound of lean meat, equivalent in nutriment to that of ten eggs, making the point that it was also a cheaper food even at the present high price of milk.

Lord Moynihan, who delighted an audience of medical men in Winnipeg last year, approached the subject from the standpoint of the doctor. "What is milk?" he asked. "The correct answer," he replied to himself, "of course, should be that milk is the pure produce of the mammary glands of the cow, but it is rarely that." This distinguished physician, moreover, regaled the members of the upper chamber with anything but an appetizing description of what milk often is, and concluded his peroration with the statement that "every drop of milk taken into my own house is boiled immediately it is delivered." He preferred to take no chances with milk that "very frequently is capable of causing a number of diseases which my profession is called upon to treat."

The average individual is less concerned about the value of milk as a food than he is about the price he is asked to pay for it. As long as he is assured that the standard of the product meets reasonable requirements, he will buy and consume it as he requires—at a fair price.

ON THE WRONG SIDE

FIGURES ISSUED BY THE Dominion Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa yesterday show that for the twelve months ending with February 28 the balance of trade against Canada amounted to $91,953,000.

It was hardly expected that last year's trading would show a favorable balance; but an adverse account of nearly $100,000,000 after favorable balances in 1928 of $141,641,568 and $123,216,984 in 1929 comes as somewhat of a jolt.

Parliament naturally will devote some attention to the condition of the Dominion's trade. It is evident that something will have to be done to extend the country's overseas markets. So far, however, the government has not explained how it hopes to correct the drop in exports and imports which the monthly figures have been revealing since the middle of last year.

Mr. Bennett's policy, of course, is opposed to imports. But the fact remains that exports increase only as imports increase. And unless the country is enabled to sell its surplus products in the markets of the world, the number of unemployed will grow. Neither the farmer nor the industrialist will grow food or turn out factory products merely to put them in stock against the time they might be needed. Modern business depends on a quick turnover for its success.

It has been pointed out many times that Canada needs more trade commissioners. But trade commissioners must be able to promise purchases in return for the sales they help to promote. The higher our tariff goes, the more difficult and restricted their task.

ADVERTISING CANADA

SEVEN AMBASSADORS, FIVE FORMER GOVERNORS, ONE VICEROY OF INDIA, and five high commissioners heard Lord Willingdon tell the Pilgrim Society in London the other night that British business men suffering from a feeling of depression ought to go to Canada to get a certain cure. He could think of nothing better for anyone feeling a fit of the blues. "There, you will find a young and energetic people, intensely loyal and supremely confident," said the former governor-general, while one descriptive writer in a London journal, we are told, has begun to wonder "whether his (Lord Willingdon's) mind was still entirely in Canada and not in India."

It has become a habit with Canada's governors-general to go back to Great Britain and serve a term as special advertising agent for this Dominion. They seem to enjoy the self-imposed task and obviously mean what they say. It must be that they catch the spirit of the west, its youthful enthusiasms, its capacity to do things and revel in the doing of them, its ambitions and pride in a fine record of achievement. This form of advertising is better than most. It will help to impart a better knowledge of Canada to a people who, in the main, know very little about us.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

PRICE OF SILVER
The New York World

(A Senate sub-committee on the world's silver problem has presented its report.) Their suggestions are of peculiar interest. Two of the senators signing the report, Johnson of California and Shipstead of Minnesota, are among the most extreme isolationists in Congress. In spite of their repeated declarations that what foreign countries do is none of our business and what we do is none of theirs, they sign a report criticizing the coinage policies of Europe, and more particularly the British Government's demonetization of silver in India. But they go even further and urge an international conference and joint action between the United States and other countries to boost the price of silver. When the price of a Western commodity is involved they suddenly forget the warning of Washington about entangling alliances. It isolation means cheap silver, then away with isolation!

A THOUGHT

All flows from the Deity, and all must be absorbed in him again.—Zoroaster.

Across The Bay

We spend a quiet day in the family circle—with no thrills—but some sound ideas—and the end of the budget debate seems still far away.

By H. B. W.

NO ONE'S hair was raised by Monday's proceedings in this Legislature. No one's breath was taken away, not any hearts broken. It was one of those nice, comfortable days when we sit around, as in a family circle, and chat among ourselves—one of those days, however, when (though it be heresy to say it) we sometimes learn more than we do when the orators are turned loose and the thunderbolts are striking everywhere.

IT WAS a day of frankness among private members, whose remarks, from cabinet ministers, would have been quite spectacular. Coming from private members, and introduced quite quietly into our family circle, they passed without excitement. But before that Mr. Loughheed made a defense of his past work and gave us some ideas for the future.

MR. LOUGHEED does not claim to be numbered among the orators and hurriers of thunderbolts. He tells his story as simply as he can, in a matter-of-fact fashion, but when the correspondents come to report his speeches they usually find some meat in them. They usually find not always so true of ministerial speeches, which, in the delivering, promise to rock the heavens, but which, in the writing, often seem curiously empty. In this particular speech Mr. Loughheed had a mass of facts and figures designed to vindicate his administration of the public works department and to prove that money which he spent pretty freely on roads was not extravagance but excellent investment.

AS MINISTER of Lands, Mr. Loughheed examined the problem of our lumber industry, the greatest single business problem we have, with the knowledge of a lumberman. He diagnosed the condition of the industry, the collapse of markets, and the possibilities of a revival. Finally he came to the conclusion that if the lumber industry went out after the business of Britain and Australia it could get on its feet again. As a first step into the British market, he suggested a lumber commissioner there, which was accepted as an announcement that such an appointment would be made.

MR. MICHELL, of Kamloops, followed Mr. Loughheed. Mr. Michell is one of those agreeable sort of men to whom life appears as a simple equation. If he can get what Kamloops wants, he is content to allow the larger problems of state to work themselves out in the hands of a government to which Mr. Michell is patriotically devoted. This satisfied that the government can handle such things, Mr. Michell offered only some homely advice on the needs of Kamloops, which he understands.

FROM DR. WRINCH, of Skeena, as usual, came evidence of careful thought. Dr. Wrinch takes his duties seriously. Just because he is an outcast, a member of the opposition, he does not hesitate to offer his ideas to the government, and in such an impartial, kindly way that the government is always glad to hear them. It is Dr. Wrinch's practice never to break down where he cannot build up. He is a constructive citizen. When he criticized the Jones budget, therefore (and attributed it to the fact that Mr. Jones was young in his job) Dr. Wrinch offered a substitute. In place of the new universal income tax he recommended the Ontario budget proposal by which needed revenue will be raised by higher liquor prices and a tax on corporations. To the liquor price proposal the government listened so intently that one wondered whether, perhaps, Dr. Wrinch had struck a sympathetic chord in government's grim brow. Finally, with a mild and paternal sarcasm not usual with him, Dr. Wrinch suggested that the Conservative caucus consider his proposals and then communicate the government's policy to the government.

MR. WALKER, of Vancouver, who always has some depressing idea on his mind before he speaks, made an announcement of government policy on his own account which, from a responsible minister of the crown, would have been first-page news. He said that the government was going to the country until 1933, which may or may not be true, according to the circumstances and the political atmosphere prevailing in 1932. Anyway, by 1933, Mr. Walker said, the new universal income tax would be so well understood and so welcomed as a blessing in disguise (a remarkably effective disguise) that the public would hasten to embrace the government, which had evolved it. Mr. Walker's optimism is quite irresistible.

NOT SO optimistic was Mr. Walker's next remark. He informed the House, in such a quiet way that most members overlooked it, that by next year the government would have to look about for still another new source of revenue. Either that or cut down expenses, for existing revenues would sink far below budget estimates, he feared. Coming from a minister, that, too, would have been first-page news. Happily for peace of mind, Mr. Walker did not dwell upon it, but turned to the more comfortable subject of ventilation in the legislative chamber. He found that with the new ventilating system the House could breathe at last. If the government could install some new system of acoustics, he said, we might also be able to hear as well as talk. But one supposed it was beyond even the power of the government to install machinery which would enable us to think.

COL. FRED LISTER, of Creston, gave one of his usual blunt speeches, soldier-fashion, without any undue respect for the feelings of the government. He said at the outset that the spectacle of members demanding economy and large new expenditures in the same breath filled him with disgust and reminded him of a vaudeville show. For his part he was not afraid to say where he stood instead of straddling the fence and hiding behind a screen of words. For his part, he thought Finance Minister Jones, "the minister of economy," had gone too far in that direction, and cut road appropriations in a year when unemployed workers were more numerous than ever. Also, he called the government's decision to complete the transprovincial highway near Nelson this year regrettable and shortsighted.

ALL THESE speeches were delivered in the budget debate which, like charity, covers a multitude of things. Nor is there any sign of the budget debate closing, as it was supposed to close, last Friday night. After going over the week-end the budget debate, nearly expiring before, has experienced a sudden rebirth of vitality. So many members want to join in it now that we have no idea when it will be over. Mr. Shelly, who adjourned it, will have the right-of-way Tuesday.

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES

MARCH 17, 1906

(From The Times Files)

When the C.P.R. steamship Tartar arrived at William Head quarantine station from points in the Orient this morning Dr. Watt, Dominion quarantine officer, discovered a case of small-pox aboard. It was the first to come under his attention for a year or more, and he took prompt measures to prevent the spread of the disease, according to the regulations laid down in the quarantine law.

The Royal Mail steamer Mlowera, Captain Heming, tied up at the outer wharf this morning one day behind scheduled time. She had a big passenger list, with forty-four Japanese in the steerage, thirty-nine of whom were booked for Seattle.

The annual meeting of the friends of the Protestant Orphans' Home was held at the City Hall yesterday afternoon. Chas. Hayward presided.

The Union Steamship Company of Vancouver, owners of the steamer Camosun, have arranged with Turner, the local agent, for the use of the wharf at the foot of Johnson Street. This is to provide accommodation for the Camosun, which in future will be operated from Victoria.

Flags are floating from nearly all the public buildings to-day in honor of St. Patrick's Day.

Preparations are well under way for the reception of Prince Arthur of Connaught, who is expected to arrive in Victoria early on the morning of March 28. His Royal Highness, who went to Japan at the head of the special Japanese fleet, will be met by the Emperor from King Edward to the Empress to convey the insignia of the Order of the Garter, sailed from Yokohama yesterday, a fleet of Japanese ships escorting the steamer out to sea.

Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Clear, with light winds, fair to-day and Tuesday, with local frosts at night.

B.C. LUMBER
IN OLD COUNTRY

Hon. N. S. Loughheed Intimates Government Will Send Man to Increase Trade

Intimation that the government plans to send a timber commissioner to the United Kingdom to obtain for the British Columbia lumber industry a purchase of British war surplus timber was made to the Legislature yesterday by Hon. N. S. Loughheed, Minister of Lands.

Grown revenue from forests had declined steadily since 1927, he stated, being now $800,000 less than in that year. This process would continue, he predicted, unless remedial steps were taken.

The industry's milling and logging capacity of four billion feet a year was more than 50 per cent idle.

"The solution must be found in wider markets," said Mr. Loughheed, "and this requires an active campaign of trade extension work."

As a result of the commission of lumber men who visited Australia in 1929, British Columbia ratio of Australia's purchases of British lumber had practically doubled from 15 per cent in 1927, 1928 and 1929 to 29 per cent in 1930.

The United Kingdom market, he said, required more than 3,000,000,000 feet of lumber a year such as B.C. could supply, paid from $35 to $80 a thousand, leaving margins on which B.C. operators could do business, and at present had no chance of doing so.

Age old custom had given Baltic woods a preference in the British market, proximity made it easy to do business and as a result B.C. mills had not made special effort to cut in sizes suitable for the British trade.

"I feel that that now is the opportunity time to lay a foundation for future expansion in our timber trade," said the minister.

A lumber commissioner thoroughly conversant with the qualities, grades and uses of our species could place before architects, engineers and users the merits of our woods. With increasing prospect of business our mills could and would so revise their processes as to meet any demand.

India had already appointed such a commissioner and Mr. Loughheed stated that now was the opportune time for B.C. to do likewise.

"If we can attract only twenty per cent of Britain's requirements," he said, "we will have doubled our foreign trade, we will have increased our national income by about $15,000,000, we will keep 6,000 men employed and increase the government revenues by at least $750,000."

ESQUIMALT GREETINGS

To the Editor:—Good luck to you Esquimalt. So glad to see you are coming to yourself. Don't you stand for being called the nuisance ground any longer. You are right when you say your waterfront homesites are not to be excelled even by Oak Bay. Not even the most ardent devotees of the beer-barrel would really want anything so putrid as a legalized nuisance ground next door. And what an excellent time for spring cleaning! No good citizen likes to see this young and growing country become alcoholized to the tune of $20,000,000 per annum with no return save debauchery and degradation.

If anyone thinks we are overzealous in opposing this alcoholic poison, let them read Marie Correll's book, "Holy Orders," and see if they would want to see such conditions prevail in this Canada of ours.

With these few remarks I'll conclude wishing you good luck and good success.

Yours for the good of the up and coming generation.

SAANICH HIGH SCHOOL

To the Editor:—May I be permitted to add a word to the very vexed question, viz, the proposed Saanich High School?

There is, I believe, a general agreement that Saanich High School, where the school is to be located is (not unnaturally) a matter of great difference of opinion, and that, no doubt, is the reason why every by-law relating to it has, up to the present, been defeated.

In a municipality of such wide area, the matter of transportation is a very serious one to many, no matter where the school may be placed. I suggest as a possible solution of the difficulty, and as a means of ensuring support of the by-law when next presented, that the school be located on a site where it may be reached by public transport, the total cost of this transportation be assessed equally against each pupil attending the school independently of where they may live or whether they make use of the facilities provided or not.

Such a system would not create a hardship on anyone and would remove the feeling of injustice that is felt by many, especially in the outlying districts of the municipality.

J. W. PIMLOTT.

ESQUIMALT BEER PARLORS

To the Editor:—The letter headed as above and signed by Taxpayer, should have been put on your comic page, as it was undoubtedly meant to be funny, for no one would seriously think that our police force has nothing else to do but watch and direct traffic at the beer parlors. If one does think so, a visit to our Chief of Police would enlighten him as to the many other duties that these three efficient officers carry out quite as well as Oak Bay, which has a smaller area and nearly twice as many police.

Again, why blame the beer-parlor traffic for the war? Is it the beer-parlor traffic that has caused the roads? I have never noticed patrons using lorries or trucks, and I cannot see the harm automobiles can do. In fact, I think they have saved the roads? I have never noticed patrons using lorries or trucks, and I cannot see the harm automobiles can do. In fact, I think they have saved the roads?

I would advise Taxpayer, Punter & Co. to move to one of the islands in the Gulf and form a little sect of their own and keep their noses out of other people's business.

"PRO BONO PUBLICO (HOUSE) O."

REPLY TO MR. DEAN

To the Editor:—It appears that Mr. John Dean is offended at what I said in my last letter. He calls me a rabid single-taxer. Well, I don't remember having bitten him, but I do remember the forcefulness of his language one might infer that he had got a nip on the ankle or elsewhere.

Mr. Dean seems to have a genius for giving wrong information. He refers to me as being "formerly of Salt Spring Island, now of 1989 Orchard Avenue, Victoria, B.C." Where can that be? My home address is Pender Island, B.C., and I am merely a visitor here in Eugene.

Mr. Dean says "Give our city considerable gratuitous advice." Shure; I never charged a nickel for it. I have given many municipalities and governments advice more than forty years, and in so far as it was acted upon, the results have been all that could have been reasonably expected.

Had my advice been taken in full the present woeful condition of debt, outrageous taxes, lost natural resources and unemployment would never have occurred, and the present bewildered and helpless condition of the average statesman's mind would have been alleviated.

I must decline, with thanks, Mr. Dean's generous offer to present me with a lot in order to qualify me as a land speculator with the privilege of expressing opinions. It squares with his principles but not with mine.

Mr. Dean seems to think that the payment of taxes on the same lot for thirty-eight years entitles him to some privilege or consideration of some sort. He is quite wrong. You can't capitalize tax or rent payments any such basis. Each time he paid a tax he paid it for the public services rendered to him for the current year; with that the account closed, and he paid for the privilege of using that lot and keeping others from using it.

Whether he made use of it or not himself was his own lookout. What would be said if a sailor who chartered a ship for a year or so let it swing rusting at anchor or only made a couple of short trips with it, then tried to establish a claim against the owner of the vessel to make up for his poor speculation or poor judgment? Mr. Dean says "Twenty per cent of the world's cities are operating it. That is, taxing improvements. Well, that is no argument at all; that larger thing comes. But a good start has been made. Most of the large cities south of the equator exempt improvements. "Sound practice" and exemptions from "false doctrine." Was there ever such baldness of assertion or absence of argument?

provements. Mr. Dean has been down there just lately but we don't hear from him anything about that. There are Sydney, Wellington, Johannesburg, Pretoria and a raft of smaller municipalities. Mr. Dean calls taxing improvements "sound practice" and exemptions from "false doctrine." Was there ever such baldness of assertion or absence of argument?

HUMAN FEELINGS ON MEND
BABSON SAYS IN ANALYSIS;
CHEAP REALTY IS FEATURE

Boston, March 17.—Roger Babson, the noted statistician, in business and economics analysis, issued to-day to his clients, summarizes the constructive factors in the present situation as follows:

"Seasonal stimulation in business carrying through the spring and summer. The stimulants—large government appropriations for construction work, building and highway programmes will have a beneficial influence on purchasing power.

"Passage of the bonus bill is a spring tonic for trade. The depression sick public is gaining courage as we climb from the bottom of the business pit for 1932 election period over. This applies especially to copper, lead, rubber, cotton, silk, sugar and possibly wheat and corn."

of the unemployment situation is past. As the wheels of industry turn faster we shall see fuller employment. This means more money for workers. A shortage in several lines of labor is even possible within the next eighteen months.

"Another gratifying situation is the widespread liquidation of real estate. Prices of good property in many sections are now abnormally low. New building should soon turn upward. Under the stimulating influence of cheap money and drop in construction costs.

"As fundamental conditions gradually round out most wholesale commodities of good property in many sections are now abnormally low. New building should soon turn upward. Under the stimulating influence of cheap money and drop in construction costs.

IMPERIAL AIRWAYS FLIGHTS
NOW 94 PER CENT RELIABLE

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times, London.—A reliability of 94.18 per cent is now being maintained by the aircraft of Imperial Airways in the flights between London and the Continent, and England and India.

Skilled pilots, together with the standardization of a fleet of multi-engine aircraft, and the existence of a ground organization—which is the fruit of years of operating experience—and wireless telegraphy and telephone, all are represented on the map by small flags which, as signals come from the wireless room, he is constantly changing in position.

routine messages by wireless telegraphy, in which many abbreviations are used to expedite transmission.

The airway traffic controller, in his office in the tower at the London airport, has a big map before him. From this he ascertains not only the position of airplanes which have alighted at stations here and there, but also the progress from time to time of machines in flight. These movements are represented on the map by small flags which, as signals come from the wireless room, he is constantly changing in position.

Colwood

Dr. Clem Davies will give an illustrated address on "Modern Inventions Abroad" at Colwood Hall, Monday evening, March 23 at 8 o'clock. This lecture will conclude the winter series of meetings under the auspices of Metcalf's Farmers' Institute.

The old-time dance held on Friday by the Wilfert Lumber Social Club in Colwood Hall was an outstanding success and another will be held on April 10. On April 7 a practice will be held. P. H. Sundin's four-piece orchestra supplied music with V. A. Green as master of ceremonies. Progressive five hundred preceded the dance, winners being Miss Jessie Erskine and Arthur Baxter, while second prizes were won by Miss Marie Marcotte and T. Parker. The monthly dance of the Wilfert Lumber Social Club will be held the last Friday of the month.

A card party will be held Wednesday evening in Colwood Hall by the hall committee.

At Saturday's meeting of the Colwood company of Girl Guides two members, Eleanor Pest and Lily Hott passed their knots for their second class while Ethel Brown passed the skipping test.

FALSE TEETH ARE A GREAT INVENTION but KEEP YOUR OWN AS LONG AS YOU CAN

Ten years too late most people seek Protection

The greatest mistake you can make is to wait until gums are swollen and spongy before you begin to think of pyorrhea. A famous British doctor states that many people have this disease for ten years before the symptoms appear.

And pyorrhea is to blame for half of all adult teeth extracted. Protect yourself now from this disease of neglect. You should, of course, see your dentist twice a year.

And, in addition, keep teeth clean—massage the gums—with Forhan's, the dentist's dentifrice. It was originated by R. J. Forhan, D. D. S., a specialist in pyorrhea.

Brush your teeth at least twice a day with Forhan's, for it is a mild, safe, scientifically correct cleanser, which restores your teeth to their natural gleaming beauty.

At the same time, use Forhan's for massage (full instructions with every tube). It is specially prepared to tone up the gums when applied with gentle rubbing, and to awaken sluggish circulation. The health of the gums depends on this circulation. Only when they are firm and strong can they hope to resist infections which bring such trouble to almost every adult later in life.

Here, then, is double protection in Forhan's—a protection which every member of the family should have. Adopt Forhan's as your dentifrice; it comes in two sizes, 35c and 60c—just a few cents per tube more than ordinary toothpastes, and exceedingly well worth it. Forhan's Ltd., Montreal.

EIGHTEEN-MILL RATE ADOPTED IN ESQUIMALT

Finance Committee Slashes
General Expenses to Secure
Low Figure

With Anticipated Eleven Mills
For Schools, Total Rate Will Be Twenty-nine

After several weeks of rigorous pruning the finance committee yesterday evening submitted its general estimates to the Esquimalt Council, establishing an eighteen mill rate against seventeen and one-half rate last year. The estimates were adopted without question.

Public work expenditures were cut to the bone and general expenses also came under the knife. In the contemplated general list approximately $1,300 was shown away, while in the public works about $17,000 was slashed off the estimates.

With the net estimated general costs totaling $23,590, added to the net public works expenditures of $21,193, the total amount to be raised by taxes was set at approximately $44,782. The itemized reductions from estimates drawn up by the engineer in the public works branch follows: For resurfacing road, $4,151 off; rebuilding and regrading roads, $1,555 off; for tarriating roads, $224 off; for renewing sidewalks, $5,451 off; for new sidewalks, $1,414 off; for general work, $1,050 off; for new machinery, $1,600 off; for new tools, $100 off; for improving machine shed, $400 off; for sewer maintenance, $3,811 off, and for other contingencies, $222 off.

In the general expenditures, the following cuts were made, advertising, $50 off; legal expenditures, $100 off; Victoria Public Library grant, $100 off; public health, $200 off; street lights operation, $100 off; fire department, $250 off; sundries, $300 off; street lighting plant, $100 off, and fire department plant, $100 off.

In addition to these sums, $780 was cut off the sewer maintenance estimates. Before bringing in the report, Councillor A. Lockley stated he and the other members of the finance committee had been into the matters very carefully and had cut down as much as possible. He recommended the council adopt the statement after it had been perused.

EXPECT 29 MILL RATE

Unofficially it was understood the school rate would be considerably lower than estimated at the beginning of the year, owing to the government's increased grant for teachers' salaries. The rate was mentioned at eleven mills which would give the municipality a total tax rate of twenty-nine mills.

While this figure was approximately one and one-half above that of 1930, it was felt the drop in the assessment of lands would just about compensate the ratepayers for the increase or might even place their levies a little lower than they were last year.

A move broached at the council's last meeting, aimed to secure for the municipality the use of the surplus on the sinking fund for the sewer loan for sewer maintenance this year.

A letter from the government regarding the matter, indicated such monies could be used under certain circumstances, but advised against its use in the present instance.

However, in the straitened financial condition of the municipality, it was decided to refer the matter to the municipal solicitor to see if the sum could be used and how it could be applied in Esquimalt.

USE FOR SURPLUS

A report from the municipal engineer stated the main interceptor sewer, between Colville Road and Ellery Street had sunk so low that overflows occurred whenever there were heavy rains. The overflow flooded the area in that district and led to a very serious situation. The sewer should be relaid or relocated, he told the council, indicating that the latter course would be better. Cost of such work would amount to between $4,000 and $4,500.

After hearing the report, Councillor Lockley stated the situation called for the expenditure of funds which might in part be taken from the sewer loan sinking fund surplus and urged that permission be gained to use those moneys for such work.

TELLS CHAMBER'S ENDEAVORS FOR SEAPLANE BASE

General Commerce Body at Luncheon Yesterday Hears of Attempts to Secure Base

Mention of the activities of the Chamber of Commerce in attempting to secure a seaplane base in Victoria was made in the quarterly report to the general body at its luncheon in the chamber's dining-room yesterday. The report also noted the board of directors had gone on record as refraining from endorsing any project involving the expenditure of government monies until such time as information in regard to approximate costs and benefits to be derived from the expenditure should be received.

Excerpts of the report follow: "A strong endeavor has been made to establish a seaplane base in the Harbor, and in order to comply with the wishes of certain shipping interests, a recommendation was forwarded to the Dominion Government, suggesting the preparation and adoption of special regulations to govern the movements of aircraft desiring to use the waters of the harbor."

"A further recommendation has also been submitted to Ottawa endorsing the installation of radiophones in the shore light stations, it being the opinion of your directors that such means of communication would tend to safeguard small ships and aircraft operating in addition to those who were compelled to reside in such isolated places."

SEEK BETTER MAIL SERVICE

"Negotiations have also been pursued with the postal authorities with a view to improving the daily mail service between Victoria and Seattle through the use of the C.N.R. boats. During the last few weeks, the Canadian National Railways have placed one of their vessels in the government drydock at Esquimalt for repairs, this action of the company having immediately followed the recommendation of your directors. Formerly similar work has been carried out at the company's own drydock at Prince Rupert."

"Acting upon the results of investigations conducted by a special committee, your directors recently advocated the imposition of an adequate tax on imported fuel oils in the interests of protecting the coal industry of Vancouver Island, and the large number of miners and their families who rely upon this basic industry for their livelihood."

BEAUTIFICATION PLAN

"Suggestions for the further beautification of the city have been formulated and submitted to the proper authorities. An endeavor is also being made by your directors at the present time to induce the Dominion Government to establish a seed laboratory in the Victoria district, in preference to any mainland point, in so far as Victoria is the first port of call for practically all vessels by which seeds and seed stuffs are imported into British Columbia."

POLICE SCHOOL TO START FIRST OF NEXT MONTH

The new police school, approved by the Board of Police Commissioners at its last meeting, will be opened on April 1. It was announced by Chief Thomas Heatley this morning. Lectures on matters of a legal nature and other phases of police work have been arranged for instruction of members of the force.

Chief Heatley also said revolver practice by the force would be compulsory in future. Up to the present time it has been optional.

"We are living in an age where every policeman should be well qualified to handle firearms expertly, and the Victoria force will not be lacking in this respect," he said.

A further change in police uniforms will be effected in addition to the switch from helmets to caps, he said. The belts which have long been worn by the helmets are slated for the discard and minor changes in tunics are planned.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

The Y.M.C.A. Senior Swimming Club entertained the junior boys' and girls' clubs last Saturday evening at the "Y" pool. Percy Riddle and Denny Walker demonstrated a number of strokes to the juniors. Nearly fifty swimmers turned out, and at the conclusion of the swimming exercises adjourned upstairs for a social hour. Refreshments were served and an informal dance held. One of the features of the evening was the presentation to the juniors of twenty-five junior swimmer certificates. Allan Stewart, club captain; Cyril Bayley, president of the Junior Boys' Club, and Nancy Hepburn, president of the Junior Girls' Club, were introduced to the gathering.

The first Y.M.C.A. track and field workout will be held in the "Y" gym at 8:15 o'clock this evening. Any athletes interested are requested to turn out.

The Y.M.C.A. Quod Club held a very enjoyable outing last week, twenty-one members journeying to Langford Lake to spend the evening. The summer cottage of Norman Collins, one of the Quod Club members, was kindly loaned for the occasion.

SHERITT-GORDON DENIES DELAY

Winnipeg, March 17.—Denial that production at the Sheritt-Gordon mine in northern Manitoba would be delayed owing to prevailing low copper prices was made by company officials to-day. Production will be started within a few days, it was stated.

Miss Sarah Smith Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples.

"My trouble began as a rash of small pimples which later formed larger ones that were hard and red. They affected my face and back. The pimples festered and scaled over, and my clothing aggravated the ones on my back. They were very itchy and sometimes the irritation prevented me from sleeping. They caused disfigurement and lasted about two years.

TO INVESTIGATE STATUS WOMEN

International Federation Would Open All Doors to Business Women

The International Federation of Business and Professional Women, formed last August in Geneva, Switzerland, has begun a survey of professional, technical and commercial organizations in all countries, which have affiliated clubs, with a view to determining why women are not admitted to membership in some of them. Chambers of Commerce, engineering institutes and similar organizations will come under the terms of the survey. As soon as the facts are assembled, a campaign to do away with discrimination against women in these groups will be launched.

English Convener
The committee in charge of this research project is only one of many actively engaged in promoting the programme of the new organization. Miss Helen Fraser of London, England, who was one of the thirty-six women of achievement in Great Britain recently honored by Lady Astor, is chairman of a committee on hospitality and courtesies. This committee will promote friendly relationships between different countries by creating opportunity for contact between business and professional women, and also by organizing an exchange of speakers among various countries.

A similar service will be extended to artists by the Committee on Fine Arts, headed by Signora Ester Danesi Traversari of Rome. This committee will arrange for an interchange of artists among countries, for the dissemination of information about professional opportunities, and for international exhibitions of the work of members.

Commercial Exchange
A committee on commercial exchange, of which Miss M. G. Vernier, a Paris publisher, is chairman, will import and export sample goods which are the work of members, and distribute classified lists of members' shops recommended by the various national federations. An international bureau of information, of which Dr. Marianne Beth, Ph.D., of Vienna is in charge, is compiling and classifying information regarding the work and status of business and professional women in continental Europe and Great Britain, much data on this subject having already been assembled in the United States.

Already active organization work has begun in Great Britain and on the Continent. Miss Dorothy Heneker of Montreal, president of the Canadian Federation and international chairman of membership, has started on a tour of fourteen countries, where she will assist in organizing clubs of business and professional women, or national federations where individual clubs are already existing. Since the Geneva meeting, both are about to form a national federation.

Mrs. Daniels gave much interesting information relative to the work of Dr. Currie and Dr. Saunders.

TO SERVE TEA ABOARD SHIP

I.O.D.E. Chapter Hostesses on Mission Ship Columbia To-morrow

The mission ship Columbia received a steady stream of visitors from 8.30 yesterday morning until 9.20 o'clock at night. Those arriving at the earliest mentioned hour were greeted with a rather pleasant surprise upon seeing the nurses in overall, helping to clean ship for the benefit of visitors.

The spirit of the nurses and crew of the Columbia is amply portrayed in the fortification, incident. Every one on board cheerfully lends a hand at whatever needs doing, and it is not an uncommon sight, while the boat is on service bent, and when she has plenty of passengers, to see the other members of the crew give Tony, the cook, a hand with his arduous duties at such times.

I.O.D.E. SERVING TEA
To-day, the ship will be open to inspection by ticket holders until 9 o'clock, but to-morrow, in view of the fact that the Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie Chapter of the I.O.D.E. will be serving tea in the afternoon, the boat will not be open to inspection by ticket holders after 12 noon. Mrs. T. R. Myers, regent of the chapter, is anticipating a good attendance at this tea, and the Mayor and Mrs. Anson, some of the city aldermen and many members of the Rotary Club have signified their intention of being present on this occasion.

To enable the many citizens of Victoria to hear more about the valuable work that the Columbia Coast Mission is rendering, Rev. J. Antle is giving a series of two lectures in the Memorial Hall, one this evening and one to-morrow evening, under the auspices of the Anglican Young People's Association. These lectures will be supplemented with motion pictures of the work.

After the lecture on Wednesday evening, the members of the various branches of the A.Y.P.A. will meet in the guild room of the Memorial Hall, where certificates for membership in the Columbia Coast Mission (Medical) Association will be presented by Rev. J. Antle to all those branches in recognition of the splendid service they have rendered the C.O.M. in connection with this visit of the Ms. Columbia.

MANNEQUINS TO PARADE STYLES

Leading Firms Assisting I.O.E. Fashion Show Saturday at Empress

The cult of the feminine is still the paramount motif in the song of fashion, with a decided tendency to revert to some of the quaint effects connected with the era of Victorianism, and on Saturday afternoon and evening, at the Empress Hotel, evidence of the decrees of the arbiters of fashion will be presented at a spring style show under the auspices of the Comptons Broughton Chapter, I.O.E. Angus Campbell Limited will be responsible for the gowns, suits and sports wear, in all the latest delightful colorings. Miss Livingstone will show hats, James Maynard shoes, and W. H. Wilkinson for costume jewelry, while George Straith will show men's suits. The floral decoration will be in charge of Brown's.

The chapter will devote the proceeds to the funds for the provision of a day nursery at the B.C. Protestant Orphanage, an innovation which should prove a boon to poor working mothers of the city. The mannequins will include Miss Margot Homer-Dixon, Mrs. Otto Weller, Miss Gladys Mathews, Miss Olga Fara, Miss Copeman, Mrs. Roy Manser, Miss Ethel Hale, Mrs. Styles Sehl and Mrs. Charles E. Wilson. There will also be male models for the demonstration of lounge and sports suits.

Incidental music for the parade of the mannequins will be arranged by Miss Irene Bick. The shows will commence at 3 and 8.15 o'clock, and tickets for either performance may be obtained from Miss Elsa Michaelis, regent, or any member of the chapter, or at Angus Campbell's, Livingstone, Straith or at the Empress Hotel.

As the shows will commence promptly on time, patrons are advised to be in their seats in good time, and are advised to make their table reservations early.

FEEL MEAN?

Don't be helpless when you suddenly get a headache. Reach in your pocket for immediate relief. If you haven't any Aspirin with you, get some at the first drugstore you come to. Take a tablet or two and be rid of the pain. Take promptly. Nothing is gained by waiting to see if the pain will leave of its own accord. It may grow worse! Why postpone relief? There are many times when Aspirin tablets will "save the day." They will always ease a throbbing head. Quiet a grumbling tooth. Relieve nagging pains of neuralgia or neuritis. Or check a sudden cold. Even rheumatism has lost its terrors for those who have learned to depend on these tablets.

Gargle with Aspirin tablets at the first suspicion of sore throat, and reduce the infection. Look for Aspirin on the box—and the word Genuine in red. Genuine Aspirin tablets do not depress the heart.

INCOME TAX AS ONE LIPSTICK

This Is What It Would Mean to Girls, H. D. Twigg Tells Women

That the proposed income tax would mean to the girl in the minimum salary class the cost of one lipstick a week and to the boy in the same salary class the cost of one picture show a week was the argument advanced by H. Despard Twigg, M.P.P., in his defense of the measure before the Women's Conservative Association yesterday evening. The occasion was a social gathering in honor of the Conservative members of the Legislature, and the speaker was one of the 200 guests enjoying the programme.

Mr. Twigg claimed that the proposed income tax of one per cent was necessary and wise, as an endeavor to meet the heavy burden of debt facing the government. He complimented the Conservative women for the generous spirit of helpfulness they had shown and the fine manner in which they had shouldered their responsibilities.

Mrs. S. W. Raven headed the reception committee, being assisted by Mrs. E. Tubman, Mrs. W. C. Moresby and Mrs. F. Kilby. R. A. Wootton, president of the Conservative Association, acted as master of ceremonies, and the social and supper details were in hands of Mrs. Lancaster and Mrs. F. Mackenzie, the supper-room and tables looking very attractive with daffodils and Japanese plum blossoms.

The musical programme, convened by Mrs. W. C. Kershaw, included piano numbers by Miss Phyllis Hadfield, songs by Mrs. S. E. Bowden, and Edmund Pearson, and violin solos by Miss Doris Fallows. The evening concluded with dancing.

"The Harp That Once" Is Found In Philadelphia

Philadelphia, March 17.—The harp that once belonged to Thomas Moore, Irish poet, has been found in an obscure corner of the museum of Drexel Institute.

Green and covered with gilt shamrocks, the harp was an enigma to museum attendants until it was learned that George W. Childs, former newspaper publisher, had bought it from Moore's family years ago and subsequently gave it to the museum. It was found during a rearrangement of exhibits.

No harp ever made for the royal family is as important, it was suggested here, as the instrument strummed by the author of "The Harp That Once Through Tara's Halls." Moore was born in Dublin in 1779.

She Couldn't Be Hoodwinked.
Miss E. Thomson, of Clapham, writes: "I find that Carter's Little Liver Pills will do more to keep the complexion clear, and the skin free from blemishes, than all the face creams I have used. I found the real cause of face blemishes was usually due to liver and stomach troubles. My druggist recommended them as a specific for stimulating the liver and expelling the constipation poisons from the system." Take Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache and indigestion. There's a Reason

Glorifying Yourself

Fortunately the ogre of the none-too-slim figure has just about driven out of existence the old "bed-time snack" habit.

How folks kept pleasant by day when they loaded their stomachs with the last thing at night with cheese and heavy meats and heavier pastries it seems hard to know.

To-day, however, there is a tendency on many women's parts to go to bed positively wanting food. They are so careful of their diet; this or that means a calory, therefore they don't eat.

There are certain "night-caps," however, that are so good for the system it is foolish not to take them, when you want something, or even to make them a habit.

If your bones are a bit stiff across the neck where it shows in a low-necked gown, a cup of milk heated until hot but never boiled, with a dash of salt in it, is excellent sipped slowly.

If you will not, even for the sake of comfort, add another calory, there are many juices that can be taken that are good. Grapefruit juice, orange juice and a half of a lemon make a good drink.

Lately, the vogue of the tomato cocktail has made it a popular drink to use as an appetizer for meals. It is equally as good taken before going to bed, and many physicians recommend tomato juice in the same breath that they laud orange juice.

One of the most effective nightcaps to make a habit is the cup of hot water one, with lemon juice in it. This is especially good for you if you are inclined to acidity of the system. For this drink is alkaline.

If you have a persistent and continued objection to any kind of early morning and late at night beverage or fruit juice, perhaps all you ever need and perhaps what you would like best is a good long cool, but not cold, drink of water. Taking a drink upon retiring and upon rising is an excellent idea. Very few of us, anyhow, get enough water to keep the system thoroughly flushed.

If you have a constitutional objection to any of the liquid nightcaps I have named, then eating a piece of fresh fruit is one of the best substitutes. Good old apples cannot be beaten. Fresh berries as they come into the market are excellent. And a dish of stewed fruit is next best to fresh.

Employees Of Hudson's Bay Co. Are Jolly Hosts

Many original and attractive costumes were worn at the masquerade dance held in the Shrine Hall yesterday evening under the newly-organized Beaver Club, representing the employees of the Hudson's Bay Company. The affair is the first of a series of dances planned by the organization, and its success augurs well for the remainder of the season, and reflects much credit upon the social committee, headed by C. Nicholls, which was responsible for the arrangements.

Mrs. Abbott, Mrs. Pinnace and Mrs. Miller acted as judges, and found their task no simple one, so many and varied were the costumes arrayed before them during the grand march. Mrs. A. J. ## SUPERVISE BUT DON'T PROHIBIT USE OF FIRE

Mothers are easily convinced that to prevent a child's getting into mischief they need only to constantly and patiently show him how to handle, examine, and put away those objects which arouse his curiosity. Such a policy, however, is embraced but weakly if at all, particularly when the object is dangerous.

Yet those elements which are dangerous for a child to handle exert the most fascination. Mrs. F. E. C. shows to what length a child will go to experiment with fire. Her letter follows: "Our son started fooling with the pilot light on our gas stove. I explained that this was dangerous for him."

"Last Sunday he burnt up part of an old fly swatter and showed it to his father who patiently explained again the dangers of fire. My youngster said, 'Yes, only you and mother touch it.' He seemed fully to understand the danger."

ANOTHER EXPERIMENT

"Yesterday I lay down with a headache and he found a newspaper and lit it on the pilot. Evidently he became frightened and threw it on the floor, and you know the rest. He did not tell me, and I was half auto-cured with smoke before I knew it. When he saw the blaze, he screamed, 'I did it. Oh, Mama, I did it!'"

"My husband and I had a nasty quarrel over this. He says that next time he'll beat the boy. Meanwhile, I'm having the pilot removed, will use safety matches and lock the kitchen door. What is the right thing to do? If you wait for a 'next time,' there may be none. Your explanations have not killed the child's interest, nor will your future prohibitions or denials. Recall the stories of bonfires in basements and barns, the fires lit under porches because the child knew well that unless he made use of fire in secret, he would be stopped and punished. This is the most dangerous possible use of fire."

FOLLOW EDUCATIVE POLICY

I am copying from one of the most excellent books on child management called "The Management of Young Children," by Blotz and Bot (William Morrow and Co.): "Fire is an element that remains of compelling interest all through life, and also they strengthen the adult's." And further on: "To counteract the dangers attendant upon a native response of such strength, only a careful and consistent educative policy can avail; mere prohibitions or complete removal from the possibility of contact are worse than useless because they do nothing to modify impulse through the exercise of understanding, and also they strengthen the child's desire to experiment surreptitiously with fire." Mrs. F. E. C. can confirm this by her own experience.

I suggest that your educative policy be to let your young son experiment with fire to light the stove and ask him to do it for you. Call him from his play. Make lighting a stove or a match commonplace, perhaps even a monotonous proceeding. Keep it until he is thoroughly satisfied to leave it alone, and meanwhile knows what to do and what not to do with fire. To teach a child to use fire will satisfy his curiosity and remove the danger of style secret experimentation, which, as you know, is a short cut to disaster.

NEIGHBORS PROTEST GABRIEL'S 'TRUMPET'

Toronto, March 17.—Women's Council heard of Gabriel's trumpet. Gabriel operates a hardware business on Queen Street East, and his trumpet is a loud speaker, which, according to the testimony of Gabriel's neighbors, "doesn't make music, but a most awful noise." A physician who lives near Gabriel's store declared that the noise was so loud and so persistent that he could neither rest nor properly conduct his medical practice. Other neighbors had been greatly annoyed by the blaring of the loud speaker.

Gabriel was committed for trial.

"I never suspected Pa but once, an' that was when he got to bathin' in the middle o' the week an' bein' nice to me like his conscience was hurtin'."

ALL IRELAND CELEBRATES ITS SAINT'S DAY

Dublin, Irish Free State, March 17.—Residents of the Saorstát and kindred souls in the northern counties of Ireland celebrated St. Patrick's Day with nationwide religious ceremonies, civic programmes, sporting contests and feasts and dancing, some of them planned to last until to-morrow morning.

An eleventh hour legislative omission preventing drowning the Shamrock in good Irish whisky, but for those who did not live too far away there were trips over to Ulster, where restrictions closing public houses on St. Patrick's Day did not hold.

In a published message of good will, President Cagney said: "All is well with the Saorstát Eireann. We are continuing with increasing success to build the old Irish nation anew, to preserve and strengthen its distinctive nationality, and to secure for Ireland's sons and daughters a living in their own land and enjoyment of a freedom not less than that of any other nation."

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Once upon a time I lived two doors from a family in which the mother and father had not spoken to each other for several years.

All the children had left home but one—a boy of twelve.

He was the common carrier between these two poles. He was also telegraph, telephone, and everything else. In other words, he was the only point of contact.

At the table it was, "Ask your father if he'll have more coffee," or "Will your mother have more steak?" When the mother came Mrs. Smith did not hand Mr. Smith his letters but gave them to William to hand to his father.

And so the years rolled on in this ridiculous way. Mrs. Smith went away on a trip one time and Mr. Smith died. William grew up, married—and had no children.

I have always wondered if he wanted to. I rather think not, for if he lived to be a hundred he could not possibly forget what an inferno his own childhood had been.

CHILDREN ARE EMOTIONAL PAWNS

The moral to this unfinished story is this. Hundreds of parents are indulging their own emotions toward each other through their children.

Mrs. Brown says to Mildred: "Yes, you may go over to Nettie's." But Mr. Brown, who feels that his authority has been slighted, or who is angry with his wife about something, objects. "She'd better help you with the dishes." He knows that will disturb her, for the mind paradoxically turns its own meannesses into a seemingly altruistic gesture.

I know a father who does just this. He disarms his wife by making her the benefactor of any contradiction of her own orders.

As a matter of fact, he resents her, resents her superior judgment, her quiet, cool capacity. In various ways, he has sought to undermine her influence with the children by cleverly turning his own suggestions to her interest.

Wives are frequently as culpable as husbands. Through children they see a surreptitious revenge. They don't overtone period. The West Road girls defeated the Normal School girls 35-24. West Road "B" team were victorious over the Colonists, the score being 58-24. The line-ups were:

$8,000 Were Don George's Earnings for Last Week

George Will Attempt to Force Londos into Title Match

Why Not Substitution of Players in English Rugby?

Fight for Play-off Positions in N.H.L. Is Finished

$6,000 A WEEK!

Who wouldn't be a heavyweight wrestling champion? Ed Don George, likeable young fellow who took the heavyweight crown from Gus Sonnenberg three months ago, made just that much last week. Don came to the northwest last Monday and wrestled at Seattle, Portland, Tacoma, Spokane, Vancouver and Victoria on successive nights. For that he received 25 per cent of the aggregate gate. He drew something like $25,000, so his end of the purse was a trifle more than $6,000 for one week's work.

George, like Lewis and Sonnenberg, is showing the general public just how to travel in the modern way. After wrestling in Victoria on Saturday evening George remained here until Sunday afternoon when he boarded an airplane for Seattle. Upon arriving in the Sound City, the champion transferred to another plane for San Francisco, where to-night he meets Dr. Sarpolis, who is a favorite in the Golden Gate city after his victory last week over Ad Santelli. Next comes a jump to Portland, Me., where he wrestles a week to-day.

After that the big fellow gets a week of rest before invading the domains of Jimmy Londos in New York City, in an effort to offset Londos's popularity and drive his rival title claimant into a championship match that would untangle the present row. George's debut in New York will be either against Sonnenberg or Joe Stecher, the scissor king, who held the title a few years ago.

Those fans who listened in on the radio to the George-Malewicz fight in Seattle last week no doubt wondered why George was so wary when Malewicz lunged with those punishing elbows of his. Here's the reason. A couple of weeks after George won the title from Sonnenberg he met Malewicz in Kansas City and the Ufaa Panther suffered a broken collarbone, forcing the local team to finish the game one man short. What was the result? The college were forced to play entirely on the defense for practically the remainder of the game and it is doubtful if the breaks had not been with them, if they would have won. Besides working a handicap on the Victoria team, it spoiled the game to no small degree for the spectators. What harm would have been done if a substitution had been placed in Wilson's place?

Another outstanding argument in favor of substitution in English rugby was seen on Saturday afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park during the progress of the B.C. championship intermediate match between Victoria College and the University of British Columbia. Shortly after half-time with the college leading 5-0, Wilson, one of their best players, suffered a broken collarbone, forcing the local team to finish the game one man short. What was the result? The college were forced to play entirely on the defense for practically the remainder of the game and it is doubtful if the breaks had not been with them, if they would have won. Besides working a handicap on the Victoria team, it spoiled the game to no small degree for the spectators. What harm would have been done if a substitution had been placed in Wilson's place?

The big argument of those against substitution is that players should be in good enough physical condition to last out an entire match. What has physical condition to do with the breaking of bones? No doubt Wilson was in perfect condition but that would not prevent him or anyone else from suffering broken bones. In a game of rugby it is quite easy to suffer a fracture. Why not eliminate a few of these antiquated rules and introduce some new ones?

In passing we would like to extend our congratulations to the Victoria College and Canadian Scottish teams on their splendid victories.

The fight for play-off positions in National Hockey League is over and finds the Montreal Canadiens and Maroons, Toronto Maple Leafs, Boston Bruins, New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks in the finals. Second place in the Canadian division is held by the Vancouver Canucks, who are in doubt following the games last week-end. Maroons have an outside chance of losing Toronto out of the playoffs but the chances are very small. Maroons would have to win both their remaining games against Americans and Boston, while Toronto would have to lose to Chicago and Ottawa. Nothing can move Canadians from first place in the Canadian section.

In the American division all positions are certain. Boston is first place, Chicago in second and New York Rangers in third. The best Rangers could do is to tie Chicago on points but the better win column would give the Black Hawks the second-place berth.

Jean Borotra And Shields Both Win In Title Tennis

New York, March 17.—One seeded American player was eliminated and two others narrowly escaped defeat, but Jean Borotra, of France, and Francis X. Shields, of New York, outstanding contenders, easily advanced to the third round of singles in the men's national indoor tennis championships yesterday. Shields won, 6-1, 6-0, from Irving W. Raymond, of Columbia University, and Borotra defeated Lieut. R. N. West Jr., New York, 6-2, 6-2.

The seeded star eliminated was Donald H. Crum, of Nashville, Tenn., seventh in the American list. Crum lost to Edward W. Burns, of the Crescent A.C., Brooklyn, a veteran indoor contestant, 6-4, 6-2. Burns's win pairs him against Borotra in the third round to-day.

Trail Miners and Alberta Champs To Open Series

Victory Over Edmonton Superiors, Will Put British Columbia Titleholders Into Thick of Fray in Battle for Allan Cup; Teams All Over Canada Giving Brilliant Exhibitions as Allan and Memorial Cup Playdowns Are Staged; Regina Pats Into Junior Semi-finals and Meet Winnipeg Elmwoods.

Winnipeg, Man., March 17.—Half a dozen western hockey teams are racing to-day toward the treasured Allan Cup, emblematic of the dominion title. Port Arthur seniors, perennial championship contenders, and North Battleford intermediates, a threat risen up from nowhere, are in the van of the galloping pack.

Heavy-framed "Pat" Wilson, veteran of three dominion-title teams, yesterday evening led a new crop of portmen to a 2-to-1 victory over Winnipeggers of the Port Arthur Smoke-eaters, and Midget Ossie MacQuill won the Lake-head teams' goals, but it was the confidence old "Pat" inspired in his young proteges that really won. The Lindquist potted Peg's goal as the game ended and left his mates but one tally down for the return-match at Winnipeg Thursday.

Two big goals stand as a barrier between the Saskatchewan title and Regina Vics, rated as sure winners until North Battleford snatched a 2-to-0 win in the opener of the provincial final. To-night the two teams do battle at Regina for the right to meet the winner of the Manitoba-Lakehead "series" and "Puss" Traub's Vics need a three-goal win to advance in the playdowns.

Beyond the Rockies begins the west's other senior series to-night, when Edmonton Superiors, Alberta winners, invade the stronghold of Trail Smoke-eaters, who have won the British Columbia championship for five years. Both teams are fresh from overwhelming victories over intermediate teams in provincial finals. The second match of the two-game series is listed for Thursday.

Winnipeg, March 17.—Ready to carry forward their devastating rout of junior hockey teams in the west, Regina Pats to-day planned another conquest—one that would take them into eastern Canada in defence of the Memorial Cup. Only Elmwood Millionaires of Winnipeg stand between Al Ritchie's unbeaten Pats and the Canadian final.

Elmwood conquered Westford Maroons from Port William here yesterday evening, 4 to 2, and were ready to try their shots on Kenny Campbell's undented armor in play-off battle here Wednesday and Friday. Campbell, smoothest of all junior goaltenders, ran his string of shut-outs to six yesterday evening as Pats downed Calgary Canadians, 1 to 0.

Held to a scoreless tie in the first game at Port William, Elmwood were victorious in the second evening's score. Regina had a safe margin over Eddie Poulis's Canadians as a result of their 4 to 0 win in the first series clash at the Saskatchewan capital.

SUB SCORES WINNER
Ralph Redding, a budding second-stringer on the Pats line-up that won the dominion junior title here a year ago, raced through the Calgary ranks yesterday evening for the only goal of the contest. The contest, which lasted from the end of the third period, from the end of the third period.

Elmwood's powerful team, carrying most of its offensive punch in Bill McKenzie and Kitchin Massey, defence partners, ran up an easy 3 to 1 victory over the Pats. McKenzie and Massey each scored on lone rushes. No McDonald, Northern Ontario Hockey Association representative, 2 to 1, in the second of a two-game series. The Bengals won the first clash, 5 to 0.

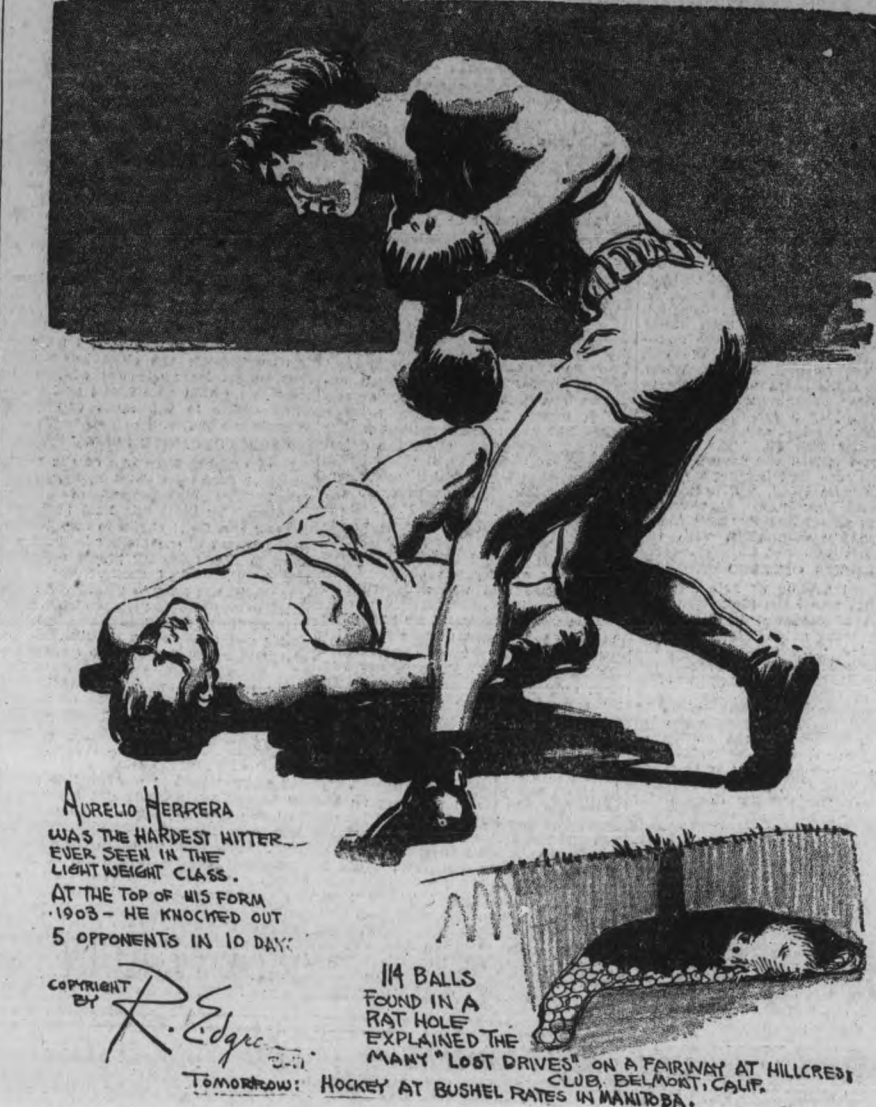

The Wolves are the first team to come from Sudbury since 1920 but they failed to compare with the famous aggregation of that year and the Tigers did not appear extended to win. The Hamiltonians will now meet either Rideau or Montcalm of Ottawa.

McGill University senior champions of Quebec and St. Francis Xavier, intermediate finalists, fought to a one-all tie in the first of their home-and-home games for the right to journey to the Maritimes to meet Truro Bearcats in the other eastern semi-final. The return match will be played Wednesday at the Forum and the larger ice surface may favor the students, although it was St. Francis who gave last season's Allan Cup champions, Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, such a terrific thrashing in the Allan Cup eliminations.

Toronto, March 17.—Only four teams to-day remain in the running for the Memorial Cup, Canada's cherished junior hockey trophy. Four more stout-hearted squads passed out of the championship race yesterday evening and the competition has now narrowed down to the finals in eastern and western Canada.

Regina Pats and Winnipeg Elmwoods will fight it out for the right to represent the west in the final series to be staged at Toronto next week.

By Robert Edgren Detroit Must Be Figured This Year Says Pilot Harris

San Francisco, March 17.—Detroit's Tigers are not trying to win the American League pennant before the season starts, but Manager Bucky Harris wants the baseball world to know that his team will have to be considered when it comes time to exchange base hits for springtime oratory.

The thirty-four-year-old black-haired whip of the Tigers, whose teams finished sixth and fifth respectively, since he took over the reins in 1929, believes he has assembled a squad that will end up where the fruit grows sweetest—at or near the top.

Bucky, who struts his stuff like gamecock and rules his roost with the efficiency of a backwoods schoolmaster, says his squad will bob up around the opening of the season with a fighting spirit second to none.

"The boys were all 'burnt up' because they lost their exhibition series here to the San Francisco Seals. I tried to convince them that these early contests should not be taken too seriously, but they acted much like a cagelion of mountain lions suddenly deprived of breakfast. That kind of spirit will win a lot of games for us when the season gets in full swing."

MUCH STRONGER TEAM
"The club is stronger all 'round than last year. Our infield has plenty of utility strength with Joe Dugan, Marty Owen and Marty Koenig. Marty McManus is favoring his knee which was operated upon, and if he isn't ready, Dugan will handle third base easily. You know all about young Owen—he played at the University of Santa Clara and with Seattle. I think he is the best prospect I have seen in seven or eight seasons. Hands like mine and he covers short like a blinder. Bill Akers made such a fine showing at shortstop last season he figures to start there again. But if he doesn't keep up the pace I'll have Owen in there quicker'n you can spend ten bucks in a night club."

"If Charley Gehring isn't the best second baseman in the league then my name isn't Harris. Big Dale Alexander will do at first base until a better man comes along."

"Much of the success of the club depends on the ability of three young pitchers to rise to the occasion. I have all the confidence in the world in Frank Doljack and the Walker brothers, Hubby and Gerald. We got the Walkers from Evansville of the Three Eye League. Doljack led the Mid-Atlantic League in hitting with .390. Hubby had a .355 average. Gerald was leading the league in everything when he broke his leg last year. He has stolen fifty out of fifty-five bases up to that time. As I said before, if these boys click, the Detroit club is made. If they don't, I still have seen him in Roy Johnson, Elias Funk and Johnny Stone."

LIKES PITCHING STAFF
"While on the subject, you might say that Manager Harris wouldn't trade his pitching staff as a whole for any other in the league. That he would is a lot of territory, especially with Grove and Earnshaw on the Philadelphia Athletics, but it stands. We have a quartet of aces to rise to the occasion. I have George Uhle and Earl White. I have forgotten the 'playboy' stuff that cropped up during the latter part of his New York Yankee days. He is in the best condition I have seen him in for many years. I expect him to win twenty games. We also have plenty of reserve pitching strength."

"That is about the end of the work. I have come to us as a free agent, and was supposed to be all through. The answer, he is going to be one of our regulars. We bought Johnny Grawinkel from St. Paul. He is still good enough for the majors. Ray Hays was with us last year."

A CORRECTION
To the Sports Editor.—Referring to the report of an exhibition basketball match on Saturday evening last, between H.E.A. and Blue Ribbons, I should like to say that there were only four regular members of the Blue Ribbon team present, who, incidentally, played all evening, being assisted by one from another team, and that the members of the team who played Saturday, had journeyed to Nanaimo on Friday, in the interests of fair play, the above information should be given publicly.

A great match in which Canada just upset Scotland by one point, gained by the last goal in the final end, gave the Maple Leaf representatives premier honors in the international fixtures in the Capital City and District Carpet Bowling Tournament at the Crystal Garden yesterday evening.

The Wolves are the first team to come from Sudbury since 1920 but they failed to compare with the famous aggregation of that year and the Tigers did not appear extended to win. The Hamiltonians will now meet either Rideau or Montcalm of Ottawa.

McGill University senior champions of Quebec and St. Francis Xavier, intermediate finalists, fought to a one-all tie in the first of their home-and-home games for the right to journey to the Maritimes to meet Truro Bearcats in the other eastern semi-final. The return match will be played Wednesday at the Forum and the larger ice surface may favor the students, although it was St. Francis who gave last season's Allan Cup champions, Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, such a terrific thrashing in the Allan Cup eliminations.

Toronto, March 17.—Only four teams to-day remain in the running for the Memorial Cup, Canada's cherished junior hockey trophy. Four more stout-hearted squads passed out of the championship race yesterday evening and the competition has now narrowed down to the finals in eastern and western Canada.

Regina Pats and Winnipeg Elmwoods will fight it out for the right to represent the west in the final series to be staged at Toronto next week.

Jimmy Evans Pots Goal and Portland Defeats Vancouver

Scores Only Counter in Mediocre Coast Hockey League Game Yesterday Evening at Vancouver; Setback Serious Blow to Vancouver's Chances of Finishing in First Place; Must Win Next Two Games to Beat Out Seattle; Dave Downie Badly Gashed in Fall on Skate.

Vancouver, B.C., March 17.—Vancouver Lions, who topped the Pacific Coast Hockey League a couple of weeks ago with a margin of points to spare, may yet find themselves in second position as the regular scheduled season concludes. In second place, three points behind the league-leading Seattle outfit, the Lions yesterday evening attempted to add a valuable two points to their total at the expense of the lowly Portland Bucks, but after sixty minutes of good, bad and indifferent hockey, the visitors had scored the only goal of the game. As a result, the Lions now have to win both their last two scheduled games, one at Portland next Thursday and the other at Seattle Friday, if they hope to nose out the Eskimos and thus gain a favored position in the forthcoming play-offs.

Jimmy Evans's second period solo effort, which resulted in a goal plus Andy Aitkenhead's stellar goal tending, spelled defeat for the Lions. Evans's fast shot from the opposing defence, which bounced off Goalie Jackson's glove into the net after sixteen minutes of play in the second session, gave the bugs their victory, as far as the summary shows, but it was really Aitkenhead's airtight netminding that thwarted numerous Vancouver scoring threats.

Aitkenhead was especially good in the last period, when the Lions swarmed around him almost continuously, with four and five-man attacks, in an effort to get back into the battle.

DOWNIE BADLY HURT
It was somewhat of a costly victory for the Bucks, however, in that their star little center player, Dave Downie, was badly injured late in the final period. Downie fell on Jerry's skate, and a deep cut, penetrating to the bone, was opened in his forehead, just above the right eye. It took eight stitches to close the wound.

Line-ups:
Vancouver — Jackson; Redpath, Arnot, Jerwa, Sanderson, Osmundson, Spares, Carr, Pettigrew, Blyth, Aitken.
Portland — Aitkenhead; Roultson, McGoldrick; Conn, Teal, Downie, Spares; Armstrong, Maher, Evans and Coupez.
Officials—Portland and Hickey.

Summary
First period—No score. Penalties: Redpath, Evans, Roultson.
Second period—1, Portland, Evans, 15.51. Penalties: Armstrong, Redpath, Teal.
Third period—No score. Penalties: Armstrong, McGoldrick and Blyth.

BILLIARDS
A billiard match will be presented to the winner of this game.
Immediately following this match H. Pearson and Nicholas, both of the Britannia Branch, will play-off for the high break honors in "C" section. These two tied for the prize with 28 each. Both matches will be 900 up.

BUSINESS PROFIT OVER-ESTIMATED

Recovery Will Be Long and Gradual, Says Col. G. A. Walkem, Vancouver

Col. G. A. Walkem, conservative Vancouver, during the budget debate in the Legislature yesterday warned the Minister of Finance that he was over-estimating the probable revenue from net income and business profits tax.

"Earnings are not down twenty-five per cent.," he said. "They are down at least two-thirds and in many cases there are no profits. In the coming year the situation will be still worse and the recovery is going to be long and gradual."

Col. Walkem was, however, satisfied with the new one per cent. surtax on all incomes.

"I cannot imagine a tax more just, more favorable and more equitable than this and by the time of our election in 1932 it will be better understood and all criticism will have passed," he said. "Good satire," commented A. M. Manson.

The speaker made three suggestions to the government:

EVERY MEAL CAUSED MISERY

Tanlac Restored Health!

Is your Indigestion as bad as that? Do you pay for every meal you eat with hours of suffering? Are you growing steadily weaker? Does gas and bloating bring on palpitation? Does sheer nervousness keep you awake at night? This was the condition of Mr. James Burns, 418 Bay Street, Toronto, when he started to take TANLAC. He had tried lots of other remedies, and did not have much faith in TANLAC. But his first bottle of this wonderful tonic changed his opinion because of the marvelous improvement it made in his health.

"I don't believe I ever would have gained up to 175 pounds, where I am now, if it hadn't been for TANLAC," he writes. "TANLAC restored my health completely and I feel as active and energetic as I did forty years ago."

Get a bottle at your druggist's to-day—money refunded if you are not satisfied.

Over 100,000 men and women have endorsed TANLAC—more than 55 million bottles have been sold. (Adv.)

"He Was Left An Income Of $100 a Month for Life"

A man said, "If only somebody we didn't know would die and leave us a million dollars!" And his wife replied, "Yes, or even somebody we did know, and only half a million!"

It is a favorite dream to "wish" that some remote relative we never heard of would remember us in his will, and that the goods news would be announced by the postman on his very next visit.

Yes, it would be nice to have the postman call every month at the same time, and leave a cheque for $100. Very welcome now, of course, but how much more so later on, when our energies begin to flag; say when we reach age 50, 55 or 60. Just when we begin to feel like easing up and letting the younger people have their way, and the job.

ROAD POLICY IS REVIEWED BY LOUGHEED

Approval Was Unanimous
When It Was Introduced,
Says Minister of Lands

Roads Costs Less as Gas Tax and Licenses Help Construction

When the loan bill for roads was before the Legislature it had the unanimous approval of the House, and the forward road building policy upon which the Province of British Columbia embarked has since that time been cordially endorsed, Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Lands, stated during the budget debate yesterday in the course of an address defending expenditures during the time he was Minister of Public Works.

Out of $4,716,000 appropriated for capital expenditures on roads and bridges, he stated that only $9,500,000 had been spent on provincial roads, the rest going for surfacing, bridges, ferries, wharves, etc.

During the two years 2,500 miles of highways were constructed or reconstructed, of which 1,200 miles had been new highway, and sixteen miles had been new asphaltic concrete.

The policy had been reconstruction and improvement of existing roads, and new construction of important links in the provincial highway system.

TOURIST MAGNET

The Big Bend Road from Golden to Revelstoke would not only be a magnet to tourists because of its scenic beauty, but would make accessible six billion feet of sawn timber, yielding crown revenue of $5,000,000, and would open a rich mineral territory. One real mine alone, he said, would repay the province the whole cost of construction.

He compared the work done in that done in Yale. While three times as much had been spent in Dewdney as in Yale in the last two years, Yale had had twice as much in the last seven years as Dewdney, he said.

Maximum summer traffic on the Cariboo highway in Yale was 973 cars, whereas at Pitt River bridge in Dewdney the daily average was 1,130 cars, and the maximum total for any one day was 3,129 cars.

The large sum spent in Yale was accounted for by the Cariboo Highway of 1926 and 1927, he said, but the usefulness of that road depended on the improvement and construction of the roads leading to it from Vancouver, Merritt and Ashcroft.

Over thirty miles of actual distance between points had been saved by relocation, said the former Minister of Works, during his regime, while the Hope-Princeton Road would cut 100 miles off the distance from Vancouver to Penticton. He maintained the work had been honestly and efficiently done and he denied that the purchase of expensive road machinery had been extravagant. It had all been used and had credited with rentals up to $850,000 for the uses to which it had been put.

He said he had purchased no more machinery than the Liberals had bought in their first three years in office.

Actually roads were costing the general taxpayer less to-day than in 1923, he said, as the gasoline tax and motor revenue came closer to covering the total outlay.

He contended that road construction had lagged behind the needs of the province and that he had striven to bring the service up to date.

BARLEY SCHEME

Toronto, March 17—Selected farmers in Ontario are being approached with a view to entering into the scheme arranged for the sale of 100,000 bushels of Ontario barley to brewing and malting interests. The Canadian Malting Company guarantees a price of fifty-five cents a bushel for barley conforming to a high standard delivered in Montreal after September 1.

Of course, if a man or woman has about twenty thousand dollars well invested, an income of One Hundred Dollars a month can be secured right away.

The great majority of people, however, cannot command any such capital sum, nor is it necessary if one wishes to plan now for the income to be delivered some time in the future.

If you want to pass the last third of your life in comfort and independence, or should you wish to guard against being totally disabled and unable to earn money, look into this suggestion now.

The coupon below is for your convenience. Fill it in and send it to-day. Do not let delay rob you of the opportunity of finding out just how you can secure the income you know you will need later on in life.

Yes, it would be nice to have the postman call every month at the same time, and leave a cheque for $100. Very welcome now, of course, but how much more so later on, when our energies begin to flag; say when we reach age 50, 55 or 60. How high can you jump?

If you want to find out, it will be a good idea to test yourself by trying to jump over a stick placed loosely on pegs between two upright stands. If the stands are made of wood, you can tell how high you are jumping and how much you improve in the course of time.

It is important to have the cross-sticks loose, so that if you do not clear it you can kick it out of the way. I remember a wire fence which I used to jump over during my boyhood. That was not a wise thing to do. If I had not cleared it I might easily have tripped and broken one or more of my bones.

Another good idea is to have loose sand or straw to land in. We must all have a share of bumps and jars, but we may as well save ourselves a few of them.

A record for the standing high jump was made by Leo Goehring in 1913. Without taking a running start, he cleared the bar at five feet and three-fourths inches.

In the same year H. M. Osborn made a new world's record for the running high jump. He leapt six feet eight and one-fourth inches into the air. Both records were made in the United States.

If we may believe the report of Adolphus Frederick, a German duke

African high jumper making a leap who visited East Africa before the World War, African athletes have made jumps which surpass any record made by athletes in civilized countries. The best jumpers, Frederick declared, reached the height of eight feet and five inches in running leaps. Just before "taking off" each jumper stepped on a mound a foot high. Even if we subtract this foot, the African record is almost nine inches above the record of Osborn.

Horses carrying riders have jumped slightly more than eight feet into the air. Fleas and grasshoppers make still better records, for their size.

To-morrow—Rainbow Natural Bridge.

Drugs May Injure As Well As Aid Patient

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

There are other drugs which have the special power to control or to stimulate various activities in the human body.

The anesthetics, such as ether, chloroform, nitrous oxide, and ethylene produce temporary unconsciousness during which there is insensibility to pain. With these drugs modern surgery is made possible.

There are other drugs which have the special virtue of inducing sleep, even in the presence of pain. These are known as narcotic drugs, and practically all of them are derived from opium.

After the narcotics come the series of drugs known as hypnotics or sedative drugs which have the special virtue of inducing sleep without the great likelihood of causing habit formation that exists with derivatives of opium. Among these hypnotics and sedatives, the most common ones in modern use include derivatives of barbitol or veronal and also preparations of bromides.

These drugs are, in a way, potent for harm as well as for good. They should seldom, if ever, be used without the direction or prescription of a physician. Of special interest are the drugs called analgesics and antipyretics, which have the special power of controlling pain, especially severe pains and also of reducing fever. The most common drug of this variety is the widely known aspirin which many people take in immense quantities without realizing that any drug potent for good may also under the wrong conditions produce harm.

In addition to the commonly used aspirin, there are much stronger drugs of the same type, including acetanilid and antipyrine. People have been accustomed to buying such things in enormous quantities without realizing that overdoses may cause changes in the blood and in the heart, and that people will tend to become addicted to the use of the drug without endeavoring to clear up at its source the condition for which the drug is used.

Many of the common headache powders sold through soda fountains contain acetanilid which tends to subdue the pain, but which is particularly dangerous on account of its effect on the blood and the heart.

Some of the most widely used preparations for headache or pains generally sold directly to the public in modern use include derivatives of barbitol or veronal and also preparations of bromides.

WILL BE HEARD AT IRISH CONCERT TO-NIGHT

The Boys' Choir of St. Louis College will be heard in several Irish selections this evening at the Irish concert being held at the Royal Victoria Theatre in aid of the building fund of the new St. Louis College. The above picture shows the choir with the shield it won in the Victoria Musical Festival. Besides the choir, some of Victoria's leading artists will appear in the concert, which is the first of the kind held in Victoria for some years.

AT THE THEATRES

NATLIE MOORHEAD SEEN IN GORGEOUS GOWNS AT DOMINION

No loveliness is ever lost! This adage comes to mind after seeing the lavish wardrobes worn by Dorothy Lee, Natlie Moorhead and Evelyn Howland in Radio Pictures' "Hook, Line and Sinker," at the Dominion Theatre last times to-night.

Miss Lee's wardrobe consists of a light green net silver trimmed slip; powder blue chiffon afternoon gown, flounces on hip and embroidery draped over shoulder; forest green montana crepe suit with ermine mousseline de sole blouse, tucked, and hat to match, and white polka dot pyjamas of flat crepe.

Miss Moorhead wears an evening gown of modern design in metal cloth, draped front and back, bodice tight over hips, a traveling outfit, black velvet, cross fox, embroidered blouse and velvet blue crepe slacks, lace negligee, and black satin gold embroidered pyjamas.

Miss Howland is particularly attractive in a black crepe evening gown, embroidered shoulder straps, long black gloves and jewels to match. She also appears in a wool suit with black crepe slacks, a black and white striped negligee and a grey satin negligee chinchilla trimmed lace nightgown.

LUPINO LANE WILL BE CHIEF COMEDIAN IN COMING PICTURE

Lupino Lane is fun-maker-in-chief in the "talkie" version of "The Yellow Mask," which has been made by British International Pictures, and is at the Columbia Theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

During the production of this picture he was also appearing in "Silver Wings"—the musical play and this gave him a sixteen-hour working day seven days a week. He left for the picture at night just in time for a meal before he was due on the stage. He was rarely out of the theatre until after midnight.

On matinee days he put in a morning's work at the studio and on Sunday's he was at Elstree until 10 or 11 o'clock at night. During this time Mr. Lane thought of starting a milk round to work on his way to Elstree in the mornings, with an evening paper delivery on his way back to the theatre.

A knowledge of wrestling comes in handy when one is enacting the role of a "buck nate" on the screen, according to Nat Pendleton, playing the part of "Smoke" in the new Fox Movietone picture, "The Sea Wolf," which features Milton Sills, Jane Keith and Raymond Hackett.

Pendleton, at one time holder of the world's amateur heavyweight wrestling championship and winner of A.A.U. and Olympic games titles in the same field, is considered one of the strongest men in pictures. This, combined with his experience in handling opponents on the mat, gives a decided realism to his work in the talking version of Jack London's famous novel, in which he is frequently called upon to toss recalcitrant sailors hither and yon.

Alfred Santell directed "The Sea Wolf" with Ralph Block, E. N. Behrman writing the screen play and dialogue from London's book. The picture is having its initial showing this week at the Playhouse Theatre.

Farm Price Level Down 41 Points In 12 Months

Washington, March 17.—General level of prices of farm products on February 15 last had dropped to 90 per cent of pre-war level, the Department of Agriculture reported today.

This level is four points under the index of a month previous, and 41 points below the level of February 15, 1920, and the lowest level in twenty years.

J. J. Bagley today issued the following:

"There appears to be a good deal of variance of opinion over the re-selling of September and buying July wheat. Some of the leading spreaders have September bought and July sold, figuring on a carrying charge basis developing.

"However, nearly everything will depend on the disposition of the board at the end of the crop year is still held off the market, as was the case with the surplus taken a year ago, it would be probable some improvement would be shown."

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, March 17.—Wheat: Wheat continued dull and featureless with one of the smallest trades passing in many weeks. Prices held within a narrow range, showing a range of about half a cent to nearly the close. What was going on was all local in character, no outside interest being shown and export sales overnight were only 75,000 bushels and no new business was received this morning. Offers were extremely light, no pressure being on the market at any time.

On the dips, wheat 50c. for May wheat looked picked up wheat that came out and there was a gain of about 1/4c. Liverpool closed firm, and private cables stated that there was less pressure from Argentina wheat today.

Chicago held firm most of the day but eased off in the late trade, but had little effect on the local market.

There was no special feature to the cash wheat situation, spreads were unchanged. Flour situation is quiet.

Broomhills weekly review was very favorable, except France, where crops have been damaged by too much moisture.

World supplies of wheat are very large, but there is very little inclination to press up to nearly the close.

BRIGHT SPOTS SEEN IN BUSINESS PICTURE

TORONTO MINES TURN IRREGULAR

Canadian Press
Toronto, March 17.—Following a sharp afternoon session, a somewhat irregular tendency developed among prices in late trade on the mining market today, giving chances at the close a mixed appearance. Total sales were 1,543,354 shares.

Falconbridge closed up 9, Newbosc stock stronger and Chibougamau prospectors added 3, Sheritt-Gordon sold off 6.

Higher-priced golds appeared in better demand, Dome, Wright-Hargreaves, McIntyre, Granada, Teck-Hughes and Eldorado finishing with gains. Mining Corporation softened 6 to 2.75, Vipond 3 and Castle 4 to 20.

Oil section and majority of the balance were practically unchanged in quiet turnover. Peninsular Petroleum softened shortly after midday, closing down 4 for the day.

(By Mason & Despeizer)

Construction contracts awarded during February, made a gain of 1 per cent over January, after correction for seasonal factors. This was entirely due to a substantial upward in residential contracts. There appears to be a small shortage in single family dwellings. Excess stock still exists in all other types of building.

The burden of reversing the downward trend in the construction industry is now on residential building.

Production of iron and steel increased more than normally in February. Latest estimates of steel mill operations show a continuation of the slow expansion. But the rate of operation is now only 53 per cent of capacity as compared with 78 per cent last year. We doubt if this important industry will increase operations by the usual amount in March.

Carloadings for the latest week reported were the smallest since the year began. Loadings at this time of year are usually ahead of those of early January. We expect railway traffic to be better in March, after pick-up in retail trade will be an important factor working in this direction.

The expected increase in retail trade for the current month is based on the least of the winter power by passage of the Soldiers' Loan Bill and on the fact that Easter trade will fall largely in the latter part of the present month.

There are still cross-currents in the business situation. Irregularity is to be expected for several months. Progress back toward normal should become apparent during the third quarter.

(By Logan & Bryan)

Chicago, March 17.—Wheat: Most of the session wheat was quiet and heavy, selling off rather sharply in the late trade, September equaling its previous low for the season. Foreign news was more encouraging than otherwise except that export buying was of small proportions. Liverpool closed half a cent higher, 1 to 1 1/2 higher. Liverpool cabled that Argentine offers were light, and it was also reported that Australia had sold ten cargoes of wheat to China this week. The improvement in silver exchange facilitating business in that quarter.

Weather news unchanged. Washington message said that weather experts were fearful of a repetition of the drought conditions of last summer over the west to the unusual weather conditions which have prevailed during the winter. Primary arrivals, 1,051,000 bushels against 627,000 bushels a year ago. Bradstreet's reported an increase of 440,000 in world stocks. Minneapolis cabled that Argentine offers were light, and it was also reported that Australia had sold ten cargoes of wheat to China this week. The improvement in silver exchange facilitating business in that quarter.

ASK OTTAWA FOR LAWS TO LEGALIZE POOLS

Measure to Aid Grain and
R.C. Fruit Men Urged at Regina Conference

Regina, March 17.—The directors of the three prairie wheat pools by resolution decided to ask the Dominion Government for enabling legislation in respect to the establishment by the provinces of exclusive agencies for the marketing of agricultural products.

It is understood the resolution was passed without dissent, and that it includes a request for assistance from the four western governments and the agricultural co-operative organizations of British Columbia, in securing such legislation from the Dominion.

It is also understood one of the subjects under discussion by the conference was the matter of repayment to banks of the amounts involved in overpayment made to pool members in the three provinces in respect to the 1929 crop. A thorough discussion resulted in a decision to leave the details to be worked out by the individual organizations.

Other matters of routine interest to the pooling organizations were likewise discussed, including the situation with regard to apportionment of certain kinds and grades of grain.

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Logan & Bryan)

New York, March 17.—Whitney of the Wall Street financial Bureau says: "EXPECT STRENGTH TO CONTINUE."

The valuable function performed by yesterday's market is that it lifted prices to a rather respectable distance away from the support level represented by 178 in the industrial average and by doing so, provided us with enough room for the moderate reaction which is likely to be followed by a recovery and by so doing, carry prices even higher so that any after-noon rally will have little chance of creating any more than two points.

As a result of this, I think this maneuver will be tried late today, and that it can have some little progress while it lasts, but with the market at where it promises to be by the time the attempt is made, certainly think it cannot be closed below 178 from now on, this being the level at which a bullish position was taken a week ago Friday, which position is adhered to at the present time.

In fact, believe the shorts are having a difficult enough time to unravel the tight position they are in, so that any afternoon dip to-day is the place to buy stocks for the balance of the week, which promises to grow stronger as the week goes on.

"Market news remains mixed, but yesterday was not without its favorable contribution to the total, with the outstanding thing being another advance of 1 1/2 points in the price of silver, plus a good step up in cotton prices, and a strong wool market. The bad news you are hearing as pointed out yesterday is nothing more or less than what normally has characterized every bear market in history. The way to look at it is most aptly expressed in yesterday's financial column of one of our leading daily papers where it is pointed out that in the present period of both good and bad news it is the bad news of recent or immediate importance which is being dramatized."

"The turn up in residential building for the first time in two years is favorable to the recently advised American radiator and the now recommended Johns-Manville."

"The additional advance in silver has succeeded in placing international telephone within a point of its high for the year and strengthening American and foreign power market position to the extent that both have little room ahead of them to get new highs."

"Several of the utility moves call attention to the possibilities of standard gas, Columbia Gas and United Gas improvement, previously pointed out."

"Elsewhere call attention to American Can, Continental Can, Electric auto-lite, Pyral, Incorporated, Vanadium, Borden, National Biscuit and Montgomery Ward."

"The turn up in residential building for the first time in two years is favorable to the recently advised American radiator and the now recommended Johns-Manville."

GENERAL FOODS EARNINGS HOLD NEAR 1929 LEVEL

General Foods Corporation reports net earnings for 1930 of $19,055,565, equal to $5.63 a share on the 5,256,945 shares of the company's no par value common stock outstanding at the close of the year. This compares with consolidated net profits, not including profits of subsidiaries prior to acquisition of $19,422,313 or $5.68 per share for 1929, the company's record year.

Combined net earnings, including profits prior to acquisition of subsidiary companies in 1929, totaled $20,519,046 or $5.89 a share.

The balance sheet of the company disclosed an increase in the profit and loss surplus to $15,134,255 at the close of the year, comparing with $11,824,177 as of December 31, 1929. The ratio of current assets to current liabilities stood at 8.3 to 1 at the close of last year, as against 3.7 to 1 of 1929.

The number of General Foods stockholders totaled 42,400 as of February 25 as compared with 32,000 a year ago.

"While good earnings are shown for 1930," says C. C. Chester, Jr., president, "they did not equal those of the record year of 1929. Largely because of lower interest rates, non-operating revenues (miscellaneous income) decreased from $1,635,242 in 1929 to $799,184 in 1930, a difference of $836,058."

Operating revenue for 1930 approximated that of the preceding year, despite generally unfavorable business conditions. The year just closed has been marked chiefly by co-ordination of companies merged in the last few years. Comparatively minor new acquisitions occurred in 1930.

"More effort on the promotion and sale of General Foods products will be made in 1931 than in any year thus far. Benefits may be expected to accrue from centralized research activities, resulting in new ideas and new products."

"A new line flavor has been added to the Jello-O line during the past year. Numerous products have augmented the Hausmann group. Several other new products are now being tried out in limited territories, preliminary to nationwide promotion."

THE AMENDMENT

The text of the Liberal amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, moved by Mr. King at the conclusion of an address heard by a full attendance of members and crowded galleries, follows:

"That the following be added to the address to His Excellency: "We respectfully submit to Your Excellency that this House, while recognizing the serious conditions prevailing throughout the world, regrets that the policies of His Majesty's Government have not only failed to afford a remedy for unemployment and agricultural distress, as pledged by the Prime Minister and his colleagues, but have also caused the position of the agricultural interests, thereby causing additional unemployment and substantially reducing the national revenue."

"The House believes the proposals made to the Imperial Economic Conference and the manner in which they were handled, and the position of the Prime Minister of Canada were responsible for the failure of the conference to accomplish its purpose in the past." In spite of this, however, the House believes that the development of Canada's trade relations with Great Britain have been adversely affected thereby.

raising the tariff in face of this," said Mr. King.

Parliament should have been advised of any policy to be introduced at the Imperial Conference that would have been a public hearing, something that would not be inconsistent with British Parliamentary practice. Mr. Bennett's policy had not been revealed to the opposition prior to Parliament, continued Mr. King.

Mr. King thought that the Prime Minister had in mind was to make of Canada an isolated economic unit, and Mr. Bennett believed such would be in the interests of Canada. How he could credit the effectiveness of a policy of this character was difficult to understand. The more Mr. King followed the actions of the Prime Minister at Ottawa and at the Imperial Economic Conference, the more he felt Mr. Bennett's aim was to assist the special interests that lay behind the tariff wall in Canada. If such were not the case, he hoped the Prime Minister would give Parliament that assurance.

The opposition leader asserted the Prime Minister's change of front in connection with the British preference was remarkable in view of his attitude on the Dunning budget last year. Mr. Bennett had then told Parliament he commended the British preference as an expression of goodwill toward the Mother Country. That statement, Mr. King continued, was meant to do duty during the election campaign in those constituencies favorable to the British preference.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Does the Girl Who Determines to Remain Single Run the Risk of Becoming Crabbed?—Shall This Woman Give Up Her Little Boy or Jealous Fiance?

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl twenty-one years old with the firm desire and intention of staying single. I detest housework, cooking and sewing and know that I will be a miserable flop at it, while I enjoy working in an office. My mother wants me to do as I see fit, but my aunt is very much opposed to my remaining single. She says a girl had better marry any kind of man than remain an old maid, that marriage broadens your mind and keeps you from getting crabby. I think this is utterly ridiculous, as I know plenty of narrow-minded, crabby married women. What do you think? F. N.

Answer—There is no doubt about marriage being a discipline. It takes the conceit out of a girl, because no woman ever has any idea of how homely she is and what her taste, she has and what a poor, miserable, faulty, incompetent creature she is until she gets married and her husband feels called upon to point out her shortcomings to her.

As long as a woman is single, if she begins putting on a little flesh, or gets an unbecoming hat, nobody mentions it, but Friend Husband isn't so mealy-mouthed. He says: "Say, Mary, you are getting as fat as a pig and before you know it you will look like a bear barrel on skids. And what under heaven made you buy a hat that makes your head look like a skinned onion? Looks as if some woman who wanted to get even with you had picked it out for you."

And as for the way she keeps house and the size of the bills and the pies she bakes and her friends and her family, what husband says about them is plenty. A woman has to be born with a self-conceit that nothing can dent if she still has a shred of vanity left after she has been married a couple of years. Of course, no doubt, such chastening is good for the soul, but nobody can contend that it adds any pep to life to be made to feel like a worm of the dust.

Also, it is not to be denied that marriage teaches a woman to be unselfish. The single woman can consider her own pleasures and desires. She can spend the money she makes on buying herself pretty clothes and going to places of amusement. She can control her own time and comings and goings to a great extent.

Not so the married woman. She has to consider her husband and children before she does herself. She has to sacrifice her own pleasure and comfort to theirs. She has to stay at home when she had planned to go out because the teacher sent little Johnny home with the sniffles. She has to get up a half dozen times in the night to give the baby its bottle and Mary a drink of water and see if Tommy has kicked the cover off. She does without a new dress and wears her last year's hat so Polly may have a new party frock. She eats the back of the chicken and wears the leftovers.

In every family where money has to be considered mother gets the worst of it. She has the shabbiest clothes. She works the longest hours and she stays at home when the others go on an outing, because after she has got them ready to go she is too tired to go herself. The married woman's life is one perpetual sacrifice that would entitle her to a martyr's crown of glory in Heaven, and a monument to a hero in this world, if she got her just deserts.

But whether this discipline of matrimony makes a woman broad-minded and keeps her from being crabby depends entirely upon the woman herself, and what Nature made her before marriage took a hand in developing her character. Sometimes her experiences sweeten her and make her the most tolerant and tender and far-seeing woman in the world. Sometimes it makes her a woman big enough to understand all of the strange complexities of life and how they warp our poor human nature and make us do things that we would not do.

And sometimes the trials of marriage make a woman bitter and resentful and peevish and narrow and envious and fault-finding and bring out all that is worst in her.

For marriage is like the fermentation process that takes place in the juice of the grape. Some women it turns into sound, sweet wine, others into vinegar.

So I don't think you need get married for the moral effect it will have on you. Furthermore, you are also very wise and also kind and merciful to some innocent young man to refrain from marrying when you are undomestic and not willing to make a home for him.

A girl can do no more dishonest thing than to marry when she doesn't intend to fulfill any of the obligations of a wife and live the normal life of a woman. For a home and children are part of the things that a man marries for. There are no more useful, sweet-tempered, cheerful and agreeable women in the world than old maids, so don't let your aunt's strictures scare you off from being one, if your inclination runs that way.

But inasmuch as you are only twenty-one you have plenty of time to decide the question, and the chances are that when some good-looking young chap comes whistling by you will decide that marriage isn't such a frost after all.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—Like so many silly girls, I married at a very early age, but after several years of unhappiness was forced to divorce my husband. I was left with a small child. He is a very likable tot, but makes my future so uncertain. I am engaged to a man who is jealous of my child, and is not willing to have him live with us because he wants me all to himself. My mother can live with us, so she would take care of the boy and he would never interfere with our social affairs. What shall I do, give up my child or give up my fiancé? HELEN.

Answer—If you are a real mother, you will stick to your child and let the man go. I don't see how you can even debate the subject, because your first duty in life is to the child that you brought into the world, and you should consider that above your own happiness.

Furthermore, you won't be happy if you give up your boy. You will miss him every day and hour, and you will hear his cries for mother even above the vows of devotion of your sweetheart.

You are fortunate in this respect, that your fiancé has told you before marriage how he feels toward the child and that gives you a chance to avoid the mistake of marrying him. Most men wait until after they are married and then, if they are jealous of their wives' children, they mistreat them or force her to part with them.

Some of the most pathetic letters that ever come to this department are written by women whose hearts are torn in twain between their children and their husbands. The stepfathers resent their wives' affection for their children, they are jealous of the time and attention they bestow upon them, they begrudge the children's support and they take a mean revenge upon the little ones by being harsh to them, often by beating them cruelly and by clouding their childhood by making them realize that they are unwanted and a burden.

Many a mother draws for me a sad picture of her children skulking around the house like shadows when their stepfather is about, afraid to speak or laugh, and of her not daring even to kiss or caress them for fear of drawing down a storm on their defenceless little heads.

So think long and well before you put any man over your little boy.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—How should parents act toward the grown-up daughters of to-day? Our daughter is in love with a good-for-nothing young man who cannot support her and she says they are to be married in a short time. We try to reason with her in a tactful way, but she tells us she has her own life to live and if she makes a mistake it will be her own. Should we sit back and say no more and let her do as she sees fit? WORRIED MOTHER AND FATHER.

Answer—If the girl is of age you cannot keep her from making a foolish marriage, but you can, at least, discourage her by making her realize that she cannot bring her loiter husband home to you to support. If you send the girl away from home for a while, it would do more than anything else to break up the match.
